SUBMARINE ABOLITION PROPOSED

Rejection of Bacteriological Warfare and Gas Urged Before Conclave

CUTS NAVAL TONNAGE

Suggestions Made By Hugh Gibson as Working Basis for Arms Conference

GENEVA, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The United States today proposed to the world further decreases in naval armament, the complete abolition of the submarine, limitation of heavy mobile artillery and the complete rejection of poison gas and bacteriological warfare.

These were the high points in a nine part proposal made before the world disarmament conference here today by Ambassador Hugh Gibson, one of the American delegates.

In a bold and dramatic gesture, the American government suggested to the other powers a scheme of disarmament touching virtually every phase of warfare. It was:

"1.—The American government advocates consideration of the draft convention as containing the outlines for a convenient basis for discussion, while expressing its entire willingness to give full consideration to any supplementary proposals calculated to advance the end we all seek.

"2.—We suggest the possibility of prolonging the existing naval agreements concluded at Washington and London, and we advocate completing the latter as soon as possible by the adherents of France and Italy.

"3.—We advocate proportional reduction from the figures laid down in the Washington and London agreements on naval tonnage as soon as all parties to the Washington agreement have entered this framework.

"4.—We advocate as we long have done, the total abolition of submarines.

GANGSTER IS SHOT IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Gangland's unwritten law against "muscling in" was invoked against Jack Golden, 30, when he was shot and mortally wounded by gunmen of a rival bootlegging ring as he loitered near a drug store on Washington boulevard, early today.

On his death bed at Georgia receiving hospital, Golden violated another article of the gangsters' code and named Jack Finkelstein as his assassin.

Golden, who was said to be a minor bootlegger, refused to take previous "bribe" made with lead bullets, that he stay away from the territory served by the "bigger and better shots of the liquor racket."

The dead man appeared at the receiving hospital earlier last night for first aid to a broken nose, and also pointed to bullet holes through his overcoat, attesting to what he asserted was Finkelstein's deadly marksmanship.

G. O. P. LEADERS TAKE HOPE AS SMITH ENTERS

Nation Wide Series of Lincoln Day Meetings to Be Held Friday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Republicans are preparing with mounting confidence to press their re-election campaign for President Hoover.

Their hopes have shot up rapidly with the threatened development of a Smith-Roosevelt contest in the Democratic party. Although Smith appeared to minimize the prospect of his own nomination, nevertheless many of his friends are beginning actively for him on the strength of his declaration he would "make the fight" if the convention desired.

First evidence of renewed Republican hopes will be given in a nationwide series of Lincoln day meetings Friday, at which the most eminent Republicans from VATICAN CITY, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Premier Benito Mussolini will visit Pope Pius XI at 11 a. m. Thursday, the first time an Italian premier has visited the pope since 1870.

The visit will mark the final settlement of differences between the church and the Fascist state. And it will be Mussolini's first meeting with the pontiff.

Definite time for the meeting was set today.

The date of the visit also was confirmed in a communique issued by the government.

Mussolini will be accompanied by the Italian ambassador to the Holy See, the minister of justice, and the under-secretaries of the interior and foreign ministries.

Nominates Jos. C. Grew Ambassador

Will Succeed Wm. Cameron Forbes to Tokio Post if Senate Concurs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(UP)—President Hoover sent to the senate today the nomination of Joseph C. Grew, New Hampshire, to be ambassador extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Japan, succeeding William Cameron Forbes.

Grew has been ambassador to Turkey since 1927.

W. Cameron Forbes, the present ambassador in Tokio, has been anxious for some time to relinquish the post.

The announcement of Grew's appointment came suddenly from the White House, and without explanation.

At the state department, however, it was pointed out that some time ago Forbes expressed a desire to be relieved from the Tokio post.

No formal resignation has been received from Forbes, the department explained. However, the administration desired to have his successor appointed, and confirmed by the senate so that he could take the post immediately upon Forbes' retirement with the unusual delay required for confirmation.

Grew, who is 51 years old has been in the diplomatic service since 1904, starting as a clerk in the American consulate general at Cairo. He has been minister to Denmark and Switzerland and has served in Mexico City, St. Petersburg, Berlin and Vienna. He was secretary to the American delegation at Versailles after the World war and under secretary of state in Washington from 1924 to 1927.

PILOTS OF CENTURY LINES ON STRIKE

CLEVELAND, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Pilots of the Century Air Lines, who handle nearly one-third of the nation's air traffic declared one of the first strikes in the history of commercial aviation today by refusing to go aloft because of salary reductions.

Planes, scheduled to leave Cleveland airport this morning remained on the ground despite favorable weather and all trips were cancelled by company officials.

Pilots were reported demanding their old salary of $350 a month instead of the new rate effective today, providing a guarantee of $150 a month and $3 an hour for day and $5 an hour for night flying.

Century Air lines operate seven planes out of Cleveland daily and 58 throughout the system. Headquarters are in Chicago.

ACTRESS' DAUGHTER GUARDED AT HOME

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Because of kidnapping threats against her daughter, Jane, 3, guards have been placed about the home of Ann Harding, motion picture actress, and her husband, Harry Bannister, aviator and actor, it became known today.

Two police detectives were assigned to the case after Maria Lombardi, Miss Harding's secretary, notified authorities through an attorney. Private guards were employed by Miss Lombardi out of knowledge of the parents because she did not wish to alarm them.

MRS. RUTH JUDD FOUND GUILTY ON FIRST VOTE

Faces Mandatory Penalty of Death by Hanging in Arizona Prison

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, 27, today faced a mandatory penalty of death by hanging upon her conviction last night of the first degree murder of Agnes Anne Leroi.

Barring a successful appeal, the frail, attractive minister's daughter will become the second woman to die on Arizona's gallows.

A jury of 12 men convicted Mrs. Judd of the murder of her former friend and fellow nurse after less than three hours deliberation without considering the insanity plea advanced in behalf of the blonde defendant.

Mrs. Judd received the verdict without a sign of emotion. A special guard was posted at her cell in fear the woman's unnatural calm, bespoke a possible suicide attempt.

Superior Judge Howard Speckman will pronounce sentence February 23 and at that time set the execution date. Defense attorneys announced they would move for a new trial and failing that appeal the case to the state supreme court.

The verdict ended one of the west's most sensational murder trials.

Mrs. Judd seemed the calmest person in the courtroom as the verdict was read. She stifled a yawn as the jury foreman passed the written decision to the judge who passed it to the clerk to read.

She nervously twisted her handkerchief and glanced sharply about the courtroom when it was announced she was to be hanged.

She appeared not to hear the clerk's words and the expression of her unusually pale face was fixed. Dr. William C. Judd, patted his wife gently on the shoulder but she paid him no heed.

Mrs. Judd wore the same dark blue dress she had on during almost all court sessions. A string

Chairman Of Committee Tells Plans

Col. Frank Knox Will Open Headquarters in Chicago This Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Provision for demonstrating the soundness of banks after examination will be one of the important features of the campaign to draw an estimated $1,000,000,000 out of hiding, Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, chairman of President Hoover's committee to restore confidence, told the United Press today.

The campaign also will include a house-to-house canvass, throughout the nation to get at each individual hoarder. An attempt will be made to persuade him that he is hurting himself, his community and the nation.

Details of the plans are still being formulated but they will take the form of two general directions.

Equally important with persuading the hoarders to put his money back to work will be the job of convincing him that there are safe institutions where he can put it.

"How can this be done?" Col. Knox was asked.

"It is a job for each community to do," he replied. "I think it will be possible for bank examiners to be called in to certify the soundness of banks in various communities, and in that way demonstrate to the people of the locality that there is no reason for uneasiness."

"What do you recommend hoarders do with their money?" he was asked.

"Put it back in the bank," he answered. "That is where the money came from. This is a fight to put every dollar back to work. Every dollar withdrawn from circulation means more unemployment."

Campaign details are being withheld until they are "fool proof," Knox said. He will leave for Chicago tomorrow to open headquarters of his national organization there. State chairmen will be named.

SENATE APPROVES MILLS' NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Nomination of Ogden L. Mills to be secretary of the treasury was approved unanimously today by the senate finance committee.

The committee also voted to report favorably the nomination of Arthur Ballantine, who was named to succeed Mills as undersecretary.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury since March 4, 1921, was confirmed last week as ambassador to London.

CONTINUED downpour of rain during the night raised marks in all community rain gauges to a new level this morning and set new records for storm figures.

With southeast storm warnings still being displayed at Newport Beach and a new downpour starting at noon the indications were that the heaviest rain of the season is on.

In Santa Ana rain during the past 24 hours had registered 1.45 inches in the rain gauge at Hill and Sons hardware store. The storm total was 2.28 inches with a seasonal total of 13.02 as compared to 7.03 inches for this date last year.

In spite of the continued rain and fears expressed yesterday that the warm precipitation might wash down snows from the mountain area and create a flood menace that danger was continued past today. Water readings for yesterday on file at the flood control office indicated that the crest in county streams apparently had been reached sometime during the early afternoon. All morning

MOTHER AND FIVE CHILDREN PERISH

HAZLETON, Pa., Feb. 9.—(UP)—A mother and five children perished today when fire destroyed their home at Trescow, mining village near here.

The mother, Mrs. Clara Roman, sacrificed her life to save the five children, after she had carried five others to safety.

The fire broke out after the husband and father, a miner, had gone to work. Mrs. Roman had returned to bed after getting her husband's breakfast.

Apparently awakened by smoke, she ran out from the house and called for help.

Then she plunged back into the burning building and guided five of her 19 children to safety.

Neighbors saw her re-enter the burning dwelling. That was the last seen of the woman. Five children, ranging in ages from several months to 11 year remained in the building.

INFANTRY TURNED BACK IN FURIOUS ATTACK ON 20 MILE FRONT TODAY

One English Woman Hurt As Shells Fall In International Settlement--Foreign Police Run

CHINA STILL HOLDS FORTS

SHANGHAI, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Chinese infantry rushed Japanese artillery positions but was flung back after a furious attack late in today's terrific fighting along the 20 mile Shanghai-Woosung front.

The Chinese went "over the top" in the Chapei sector just before dusk. They came over in waves after a heavy artillery and machine gun barrage, and advanced within 500 yards of the Japanese lines before sharp counterfire forced them to drop back.

Shells and machine gun fire rained into the international settlement along the 20 miles Shanghai-Woosung front, and sent some foreign police and thousands of Japanese fleeing for their lives.

One English woman was wounded and several Chinese were injured by shrapnel. Foreign police fled from the station house at Dixwell road when shells shattered the windows and punctured the brick walls.

There was a tremendous explosion just back of the Woosung fortress. A Chinese powder magazine was believed blown up. There was a deafening roar. The sky turned a dull red. Looked like a Japanese shell had made a direct hit on the magazine.

Most of the 33 Japanese warships at Woosung were believed participating in the renewed bombardment. Their gunfire supported the land artillery.

Position of the defending garrison remained uncertain although Japanese claimed full control of Woosung village.

Japanese boats hurried to the plane and rescued the pilot. He did not appear to be badly hurt. The damaged plane was salvaged.

The police said 30 shells fell near Dixwell road station, in Hongkong, the settlement district populated chiefly by Japanese. There was some talk of evacuating all foreigners. Thousands of resident Japanese alerted.

BRIEFS FILED IN ELECTION PROTEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Oral arguments before the district appellate court were eliminated today by the filing of written briefs in the suit of H. H. Merrick, Los Angeles citizen, to declare invalid the election of John C. Porter as mayor.

The case was referred to the appellate court by the state supreme court after a Los Angeles superior judge had refused to act, claiming lack of jurisdiction.

Attorneys for Mayor Porter contended the appellate court also lacked jurisdiction, since Merrick had included in his charges expenditures made in the primary election.

Merrick's suit alleged Mayor Porter failed to file vouchers for campaign funds and that no accounting was made for contributions of $17,792 from Cole Sailing, $500 from Marco Hellman, $1250 from the Gilmore Oil company, $1700 from Robert J. Gans, $1000 from Joseph Meador and $2000 from F. W. Gollum.

HOPE STILL HELD FOR LOST FLIER

FRESNO, Cal., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Rev. A. B. Carr, Lindsay, and his family of four today revived hope that Lt. Edward D. Hoffman was still alive in the snow-bound Sierras east of here.

Hoffman disappeared in an observation plane in a blizzard eight days ago after his flight companion Lt. W. A. Cooke parachuted to earth and safety. Subsequently more than 50 army planes spent more than 350 hours searching the mountain country for Lt. Hoffman.

Rev. Carr, an overseas veteran familiar with army flares, reported that near daybreak today he and his family saw three flares rise in rapid succession in the mountains. He said they appeared to rise from Mount Moses, eight miles due east where the snow is believed still four to five feet deep.

PEACE EFFORTS FALLING FLAT. REPORTS STATE

Discouraged Diplomats Are About Ready to Admit Failure Today

TOKIO, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Peace efforts in China led by the United States and Great Britain appeared to have fallen flat today with Japan's refusal to withdraw her troops in Shanghai unless Chinese withdrew first.

Discouraged diplomats were about ready to admit failure in the efforts to halt hostilities, it was tacitly admitted.

The British submitted the principal peace proposals to Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China, at Shanghai.

One was for an armistice during which negotiations could arrange such matters as a temporary neutral zone, policed by defense authorities in the international settlement.

ABOARD S. S. EUROPA, Feb. 9.—(To the Editor of The Register): I went clear around the world to keep from coming back across that Pacific, and here this ocean is worse than that was. We are pulling in a day late. Even the oceans have depressions. If this boat don't hurry up and get in I will be too late to vote for Al. I always kinder thought he was coming out—well when you get 16,000,000 votes it does kinder lead a man to think he has some license to believe that he is not just some outsider butting in.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.
P.S.—That warning the League of Nations sent just seems to whetted Japan's appetite more than the notes we used to send 'em single handed.

President Hoover down will be heard over banquet tables.

This new lease on life arising from the probability of strife within the Democratic party is so great as to cause little concern over the latest anti-Hoover development.

Rep. Louis T. McFadden, Republican, Pa., will be a Republican candidate for president in the North Dakota primaries. The other Republican candidate is former Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland. Administration Republicans do not classify either as a serious opponent. McFadden gained national attention recently when he criticized President Hoover's moratorium so vehemently as to draw denunciation even from the Democratic side of the house.

The only Republican seriously considered as a possible candidate who might cause some damage is Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican, California. If circumstances were more favorable he would like nothing better than to battle again with his old foe. But he is reluctant to make the fight. Unless he changes his mind, Republicans will rest easy and hope for a serious Democratic split.

The one menacing cloud is the prohibition question. Only the distant rumbles are heard now, but many fear they will become louder. Rep. LaGuardia, Republican, New York, told the house he would bolt the party if it did not adopt a wet plank this year.

Administration Republicans believe they could live through that. But there are more influential Republicans who will make a determined fight to maintain the party on prohibition. They include some of the biggest eastern leaders.

LOST WEDDING RING CAUSE OF FLURRY AT COURT HOUSE

If Antino Correa, 32, of Los Angeles, had been a plumber, perhaps there would have been some excuse for his difficulty. But since he is a cook he had no alibi when he lost the wedding ring today when he came to the court house to get his marriage license, with Leopoldine J. Pierce, 38, his intended bride. They got the license. But while on their way to confide their marital intentions to Judge Kenneth E. Morrison, Antino discovered the ring wasn't there any more. He admitted as much to his intended bride. The frantic search that followed failed to reveal any trace of the ring.

Once in the scene that followed, the pair became separated. Whether the bride-to-be was just talking things over with herself or whether she was simply making a statement of her case to sympathetic observers wasn't learned; but she was heard to say that for the last two days she had been wearing the ring herself, fearing just such a catastrophe as the one which happened today. Antino, who said, had been entrusted with the ring only lately, for the purposes of the ceremony.

In such a dilemma, extreme measures are called for. Antino led his bride to be into the business section of Santa Ana. When they returned to consult Judge Morrison, there was a gleaming band to seal the wedding pact. Antino had saved the day.

And in a cash register behind one of the long counters in a store that contains everything from monkey wrenches to jewelry, there reposed one of Antino's thin diamonds.

But, as an anti-climax, Frank Humphreys, Santa Ana attorney, found the genuine ring on the steps outside the court house—after the ceremony. Antino and his wife don't know that yet. But they will when the mailman arrives tomorrow.

ready have fled. It is on the border of the native Chapel district, scene of carnage for the past fortnight.

Mrs. K. H. Robertson, wife of an inspector in the British-controlled police, was wounded slightly when struck by three bits of shrapnel. The shell fell in front of her home in the western residential district, three miles from Dixwell road police station. It is in the British section.

A Chinese woman was wounded while walking on the west boundary of the settlement, and miles from the Hongkew sector. One shell even fell in the French concession, clear across the breadth of the international settlement from Chapel.

The Japanese rushed reinforcements from Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura's flagship Idzumi lying in the Whangpoo river. Their army and marine forces held their lines under the desperate Chinese rush, but the tide of battle was in doubt until the reinforcements came into the front line defenses.

RIVER BED FILLED WITH HEAVY FLOW

Filled from bank to bank with a rushing current that tosses and froths as it rolls down the customarily dry river bed, the Santa Ana river today, fed with the runoff of the recent heavy rains, is the object of interest to all who cross the bridges near Santa Ana.

All of the roads which formerly crossed the river on its banks have been closed and a crew of city employees is stationed at the Santa Ana boulevard bridge with long poles to prevent debris from piling up against the structure and forming a dam.

Many residents of the city are driven to the bridge to observe the unusual sight. It is the first time since the floods of 1927 that the river has had as much water in its confines.

MRS. RUTH JUDD FOUND GUILTY ON FIRST VOTE

of imitation pearls was around her neck.

As she walked through the corridors to return to her cell she talked quietly with the matron and Sheriff J. R. McFadden.

"She said 'goodbye' to us so casually I was worried," McFadden said. "I talked to Judge Speakman and we decided to place a special guard over her, at least temporarily."

Her husband was much more nervous than Mrs. Judd. He acted like a broken man.

"What can I say?" he asked when questioned as to his opinion of the verdict. He held his hands out helplessly.

The courtroom crowd was small. The verdict had not been expected before sometime tomorrow.

Most spectators were impressed by Mrs. Judd's apparent indifference and surprise by the verdict. It was pointed out Arizona's previous experience in hanging a woman had not been pleasant. It had been believed this might influence the jury.

Mrs. Eva Dugan, only other woman sentenced to hang in Arizona, was decapitated when she dropped through the trap in 1930.

Although most testimony of the three-week trial dealt with insanity, C. B. Thompson, foreman of the jury, explained the questions of the defendant's sanity never was discussed.

"On the first ballot we decided she was guilty," he said. "On the second the vote was 10 for the death penalty and two for life imprisonment. On the sixth ballot we were unanimous."

T. J. Lassen, juror, told the United Press no other finding was possible.

"We made sure this one won't ever get another chance to kill," he stated. "There's no use putting them in asylums, anyway. Let's all go home and get some sleep."

The defense contended Mrs. Judd was insane when and if she killed Mrs. Lerol and Miss Hedvig Samuelson the night of Oct. 16. Her attorneys asked that she be put in an asylum "for the rest of her life."

They were stunned by the verdict.

"It is unbelievable, impossible," Paul Schenck, chief defense counsel, protested. "Why the jury never even considered insanity."

County Attorney Lloyd Andrews said "justice prevailed."

Andrews said since the outcome of this case was satisfactory the state intended to drop the indictment against Mrs. Judd of shooting Miss Samuelson to death.

Neither the Rev. H. J. McKinnell, retired minister, nor his wife, Mrs. Carrie McKinnell, parents of the defendant, were present when the verdict was read.

The British wanted the Japanese and Chinese to withdraw 15 or 20 miles to prevent clashes.

The Japanese replied that their lines were only a few hundred yards beyond the original defense positions to which the powers were asking they withdraw. They held that the important point was for the Chinese to withdraw out of cannon range.

Japan reiterated that Manchuria was a distinct and separate affair and not connected with the Shanghai incident.

department that "From all appearances" the Chinese do not intend to withdraw from the Chapel district.

Taylor estimated that Chinese forces in the Shanghai-Nanking area number about 100,000. These, he said, are under command of Gen. Tsai Ting Kai.

The admiral reported that a Japanese army is being assembled rapidly at Shanghai, approximately 2500 troops having already landed and others preparing to disembark from Japanese transports off Woosung.

The American destroyer Stewart arrived at Amoy, 500 miles south of Shanghai, today, after a short trip north from Hongkong. The Stewart had been sent from Shanghai to southern parts of China where it had been reported disturbances were breaking out.

MARINE AIR SURVEY

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti—An aerial survey of the northern section of Haiti is being made by pilots of the U. S. Marine Corps Observation Squadron 8-M, commanded by Major J. E. Davis. # UNITED STATES SUGGESTS PLAN AT CONFERENCE

"5.—We will join in formulating the most effective measures to protect civilian population against aerial bombing.

"6.—We advocate the total abolition of lethal gases and bacteriological warfare.

"7.—We advocate the computation of the number of armed forces on the basis of the effective necessary for the maintenance of internal order plus some suitable contingent for defense. The former are obviously impossible of reduction; the latter is a question of relevancy.

"8.—We agree in advocating special restrictions for tanks and heavy mobile guns, in other words, for those arms of a peculiarly offensive character.

"9.—We are prepared to consider a limitation of expenditures on material as a complementary method to direct limitation, feeling that it may prove useful to prevent a qualitative race, if and when quantitative limitation has been effected."

SWEEPING PROGRAM

This sweeping program is not an "American plan" in the sense that it must be accepted or rejected in toto. It is merely a series of suggestions any or all of which might be accepted by the other powers. The United States, of course, pledged itself in advance to their acceptance.

In putting forward the program, Gibson declared that "the burdens and dangers of gigantic machinery of warfare which are now being maintained in times of peace have reached a point where they threaten civilization itself."

"The American delegation," Gibson said, "is prepared to consider any form of military limitation and reduction which promises real progress toward the feeling of international security, protection against surprise, and restraint on the use of arms for purposes of aggression."

The American proposals were similar to the British policies outlined by Sir John Simon in advocating total abolition of the submarine and gas and chemical warfare; acceptance of the draft disarmament convention and the Washington and London treaties as a working basis for further arms reductions; proportional reduction from the figures established by the Washington and London agreements, and restriction of heavy land armaments.

Report Heavy Losses

Heavy losses were reported on both sides. The Chinese advanced through the shell holes and blackened ruins of Chapel, just over the border of the international settlement. Their artillery fire flung countless shells into the fringe of the foreign area. Many landed well within the boundary during a day of renewed terror.

I tried to get an accurate list of the casualties from both sides but headquarters refused to give out the figures. There is no doubt the dead and wounded ran high, but responsible authorities refused to accept obviously wild estimates heard on all sides. You can get new figures of that sort hourly.

At 7:45 p. m. the fighting waned on the Chapel sector. It ended a day of the most severe battling in the fortnight of the fight for Shanghai. The danger to the international settlement was feared growing daily. One foreign woman was wounded by shrapnel as shells flew thick over the settlement.

Forts Bombaraded

The Japanese concentrated their attack earlier in the day at Woosung, where 23 units of their fleet gathered to bombard the forts. The Chinese put up an amazingly stubborn resistance, and as far as I could learn tonight no material change in the relative positions had occurred there despite the heavy Japanese firing and land attacks.

The Japanese apparently consolidated their positions along Woosung creek between the village and the forts at Woosung, 10 miles down the river from Shanghai. They succeeded in laying a temporary bridge over the creek to replace the one blown up by the Chinese, but the Chinese continued to hold their badly shot up forts.

The lines held by the Japanese in the Chapel sector were extended across the Woosung railway spur in the direction of the Kiangwan race course prior to the Chinese attacks this evening. The movement indicates the fighting front on this salient within the native area is lengthening.

Meanwhile, a momentous conference of Chinese military and civil authorities gathered in the offices of Mayor Wu Teh-Chen in the native area. It seems to me they have decided on a desperate effort to bring some semblance of unity out of the chaos in government and meet the Japanese with a solid front.

Such men as T. V. Soong, the finance minister, Dr. H. H. Kung, Soong's brother-in-law and former minister of commerce and industry; former Foreign Minister C. T. Wang; Wellington Koo, widely known diplomat in the old northern regime at Peking now affiliated with the Nanking group; and others, including Yu Yu-Jen, Ku Men-Yu and Chiang Tao-Ping, erstwhile minister to Japan, attended the meeting.

They sent telegrams to Chinese abroad appealing for funds to make possible protracted armed resistance against Japan.

Leaders in Parley

Gen. Chiang Kuang-Nai, of the Chinese military command defending the city, was one of the prominent army leaders present at the conference that convened shortly after it was reported the Chinese army might consider withdrawing if the wealthy Chinese bankers and merchants inside the settlement paid them.

The conference was in constant communication with Shanghai bankers, as well as members of the Loyang "government" clique still at Nanking. They wired Chiang Kai-shek, the Chinese leader who is residing aboard a railway coach at Pukow, across from Nanking on the north bank of the Yangtze river. He is nominally head of the executive Yuan and thus chief executive of the present semblance of government, and is known as a radical.

Persons in the conference at Mayor Ku's offices represented political opinion, from extreme conservatism to semi-communism. The Loyang government issued a mandate appointing Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang, "Christian general" of varied career, home minister, and made Wang Ching-Wel also minister of railways in addition to his other posts.

Wu Teh Chen announced after the conference that discussions of peace had proved fruitless and no agreement could be reached at present.

After an hour's lull in the fighting, the exchange of heavy artillery fire was resumed in the Chapel area at 10 p. m., the reverberations shaking the settlement. The Japanese dropped a 900 pound aerial torpedo and several 150 pound bombs during the battle.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

Think of some wonderful picture you have seen or of a book you have read which has roused within you the sense of unexpressed power. Recall how new faith in human nature welled up in your heart as you have seen a man stand undaunted before what seemed like the wrecking of all his hopes when sorrow descended upon him.

Then remember that God stands ready and eager to give to you the strength to bring into other lives the transformation which has thus come to you.

What you are to accomplish for others is to come not from performing some great dramatic act, but from holding fast to your faith in Him while you calmly proceed along accustomed paths. The man who refuses to doubt God's love wins others from despair.

51 FEET DEEP NOW AT TOWER ON SPILLWAY

Possibility that the Santiago reservoir would be filled this year was brought nearer realization by a six-foot rise of water since yesterday noon. According to Roy Browning, engineer for the Irvine company which will receive the benefit of half of the impounded water, it is most unusual for a newly constructed dam to be filled the first year after its construction.

Browning, who visited the dam this morning, said that at the present time the dam impounds 3300 acre feet of water which cover about 150 acres of ground. Another six-foot rise will increase this amount to about 15,000 acre feet, Browning said in giving a rough estimate this rise would make, as the spread is rapid. The dam which was completed this fall, is located at the fourth crossing beyond Irvine park and will hold 25,000 acre feet. The waters are shared by the John T. Carpenter irrigation district, the Serrano irrigation district and the Irvine company.

Water is now 51 feet deep at the tower which is 130 feet in height and is about half way up the 110 foot spillway, according to the engineer.

The Santiago creek is running bank to bank at the rangers station, it was said, and while roads to the dam are at present passable an eight foot rise it joins the old road back of the dam, as the new road has not yet been completed.

LESSON ON GLAZING IS SECOND IN POTTERY WORK

By MRS. L. B. SMALLEY

This is the second lesson since we talked of the clay and its good behavior. Now we take up glass or glazing—what are called raw glazes, that is unfired or heated in a furnace to 2000 centigrades and reground in a commercial ball bearing machine. We use dry white lead from the nearest dealer. The result of the heat on these chemicals in the raw glazes and the proper proportions of flint and spar and soda is a never ending source of joy and despair.

From your clay you have probably fashioned a plate, a pitcher, a vase or an ash tray. A transparent lead glaze is the first formula to be offered. In order to make your article quite colorful it must be painted in the raw shape while still wet and before biscuit firing. Of course if the piece dries before you get the coloring oxides it does not matter much. At Rookwood pottery the articles are painted just as soon as thrown on the wheel, very wet.

The oxides for this purpose can be purchased at the Braun company in Los Angeles, also at Butchers and the Los Angeles Chemical company.

Cobalt blue oxide is quite expensive and also crimson 60 copper (green) costs from 40 to 60 cents a pound and as manganese (brown or purple), is manufactured in the state its cost is very little—25 cents and the Fuller paint company keeps iron oxide which is the cheapest.

Anyone who has painted china has an assortment of brushes and mediums and so is ready to start without gathering more materials.

If you are decorating a plate cut a nice picture out of a magazine or newspaper. Trace it over with a pencil on the nearly dry clay. Outline this with a fine brush dipped in iron oxide. Mix a teaspoonful of this powder on a plate with a palette knife, use karo corn syrup for the medium or glycerine and have at least three brushes, one for each oxide.

Paint the copper over the figures in your design and do the white figures in plastic Vitrox.

This Vitrox is a new ceramic substance, the raw material for which has been formed in nature's own furnace in such a prodigious mass as to insure a supply for the world's ceramic needs for generations. The available tonnage today is 200 million tons.

Before East Liverpool gets away with all this the state of California can get busy and use up a few million tons. The recipe for this glaze which will follow your biscuit fired plate is as follows: Lead three pounds, plastic Vitrox two pounds, zinc oxide 1/4 pound, to be fired at cone .06.

Now for the usual recipe for a transparent glaze: three pounds of lead, one pound flint; one pound of spar; 1/4 pound zinc. 1/8 pound lime whitening (calcium carbonate). Caution: Lead is poisonous. Take care not to mix it or spill it around any place where it might drift into the food. Don't inadvertently get any of the lead in your mouth.

Benjamin Eyre, 69, long time resident of Orange county and an employee of the Irvine company for the past 13 years, died yesterday in a local hospital after an illness of more than two weeks.

Eyre, who was a native of England, had held a succession of positions with the Irvine company until recent years when he was made caretaker and operated the made caretaker and operated the made caretaker and operated the made caretaker.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 10 a. m. from Smith and Tutill's chapel with the Rev. W. J. Hatter of the Church of the Messiah officiating. Interment will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

RELIEF AID BY COUNTY TO BE CUT MARCH 1

On the first of March the county will turn over to cities the problem of handling "borderline" cases in the unemployment situation which now faces this section. This was announced last night by John C. Mitchell of Garden Grove, chairman of the board of supervisors, in an address on "County Problems" at a meeting of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce, held in the Women's clubhouse there.

These borderline cases are those of individuals who either have resources of some kind or have relatives working who can aid them, according to a statement issued by the board last Tuesday. These the county feels that it can take care of no longer and the statement said the burden would be given to the cities.

It becomes the duty of the county to care for the sick and distressed and for border line cases when these persons have no means to care for themselves, Mitchell said. He explained that the reason for the plan to shift the burden was that money set aside in the county budget for this contingency was approaching exhaustion.

In talking of the unemployment situation, Mitchell said: "By the laws of California it is impossible to allocate funds budgeted at the first of the fiscal year, from one department to another. On the first of July the county budgets will be made, and money left over from other departments will go automatically to the general fund and could then be placed in the welfare budget."

He told the group that no one could have foreseen the demand which was made on the welfare budget this year, and said this is the only one which has been depleted. Stanley Mansur, president of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce, said he had visited the welfare department of the county a short time ago and was surprised at the amount of work being done.

He also declared that he was glad that the Orange Chamber of Commerce was encouraging the opening of Palmyra avenue and Citrus avenue owing by which means Orange residents would be able to reach St. Joseph's hospital.

SUPERVISORS BAN USE OF ANNEX AT NIGHT

Beginning on February 15 the court house annex will be closed at night. The same hours will be observed as in the court house and hall of records, with a final closing hour of 5:30 p. m. The building will be closed on Sundays and holidays. This is the result of a resolution adopted today by the board of supervisors.

When the board adopted its resolution today it was explained that neither the court house nor hall of records was open for night meetings. A request had been made for use of the law library in the court house at night but it had not been granted. Chairman John Mitchell said it was further stated that night use of the annex jeopardizes the building from a fire insurance standpoint. Although other groups such as school executives have used the building at night, Farm Bureau groups hold meetings there most often. The committee on sewage reclamation representing cities and sanitary districts throughout the county has been meeting in the Farm Bureau assembly rooms. It is understood that after February 15 the policy of the board will call for meetings during the daylight hours.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy Is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Newport Votes On Tax Rate At Election In April

OPEN BIDS ON HARBOR WORK FEBRUARY 29

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 9.—The reduction of the city tax rate for advertising purposes will be put on the ballot at the April election in Newport Beach. The city clerk, Alfred Smith, reported at the council meeting last night that 223 qualified voters had signed the petition for submitting the question on the ballot. The proposal is to reduce the tax rate to five cents per $1000 assessed valuation.

Harbormaster Roland Hodgkinson reported to the council that three boats had gone ashore in January in the west turning basin on account of wrong anchorage. C. J. Gore, caretaker of several boats, who had disputed the right of the city to regulate boat moorings, will appear before Judge W. A. Leonard, Thursday, it was reported by Hodgkinson, to be tried in the test case, as to whether the city or the government has control over boat moorings in the harbor.

The committee of 14 real-estate men named at the last meeting to make a survey of land valuations, reported that the county valuation was $12,341,000, which is $91,000 more than the city valuation.

A letter to the council from County Clerk Joe Backs announced the county supervisors had allocated $20,000 for dredging the harbor entrance, in conformity with the plans by which the city spends a like amount. City Engineer R. L. Patterson presented plans for the dredging job and the council ordered bids advertised for and will open bids February 29.

Contract was let for two years for taking care of city garbage, the contract going to Price and Pomerooy at $50 a month.

The city council named Dr. Hermann Hilmer, councilman, and A. J. Garfield to attend the meeting this afternoon at the room of the county supervisors in the courthouse at Santa Ana to ask that the proposed state coast park at the east city limits of Huntington Beach be extended to the city limits of Newport Beach, taking in the entire three miles of coast line between Newport Beach and Huntington Beach. The proposal was brought before the council last night by J. P. Greeley.

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver discharge its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills. What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic like Plantax to thoroughly cleanse the digestive system of all foul secretions and at the same time restore the torpid liver to proper working order. When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, coated tongue, yellow skin, sour stomach, gas, bilious attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble. Plantax is made from the juices of harmless medicinal plants—Nature's own remedies—that act in a mild, easy way without weakening or irritating the system. Try a box today. Large bottle $1 at any good drug store.

COUNCIL DENIES TAXI PERMIT TO W. C. CROSBY

C. H. Eckles, operator of the Santa Ana busses and taxi lines in the city today held the undisputed right to operate all taxi lines here, following action of the city council last night in refusing to grant a permit to W. C. Crosby to operate another line known as the Star Taxi.

The matter had been before the board for the past several weeks and in the interim Crosby has been operating without a permit. On December 21 of last year he filed a petition for a permit and the council has taken no action on the request until last night.

In the meantime another taxi cab fight was waged, ending when Eckles bought out the City Taxi Cab service from Sonoma B. Kinzer, this being the largest competitor that Eckles had. Eckles also said at that time that he purchased the name of the Star Taxi Cab company. He previously had purchased the Owl Taxi line.

With the elimination of Crosby last night the taxi field here was taken over entirely by the Courtesy Cab company.

Crosby presented a petition to the council signed by 261 persons, stating that he had operated his business here for the past several months, that there had been no complaints against the manner in which the business was operated and "we think it inadvisable and unwise to give any individual or group a monopoly on the service of carrying passengers for hire in Santa Ana."

Before voting to refuse the permit to Crosby the council asked for a ruling from the city attorney, Clyde Downing, city attorney was not present, but Joe Ogle, assistant city attorney ruled that the council could refuse the permit if it decided that another taxi service in Santa Ana was not necessary.

J. L. McBride made the motion that the permit be refused. It was seconded by Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger and carried by these two votes as Councilman Paul Witmer and Councilman E. G. Warner were not present. The mayor votes only in case of a tie.

CITY SEEKING PERMISSION TO PLANT TREES

The city council last night instructed the city engineer, DeWitt Dudley, to procure, if possible, permission from the Southern Pacific railroad, for the city to plant trees along the north side of the railroad tracks running parallel with Santa Ana boulevard.

The action was taken at the suggestion of William Tway, secretary of the city planning commission, who was present at last night's meeting of the board.

"This is all in connection with the planning commission tree planting campaign," said Mayor John Knox, as he called for the vote.

No plans have been made, according to Knox for the planting of trees this spring, but should the city planning commission find means to carry on the work, the city wants to have the permission of the railroad company to use that property, it was explained.

Previous requests of the planning commission for $10,000 from the unemployment relief funds of the city for use in planting trees has met with strenuous objection on the part of organizations and council members interested in the city stadium and patriotic hall project now under way.

SELF-REFRIGERATING TRUCK

This new Lucerne truck, which has a built-in refrigerating unit, has a carrying capacity of 400 gallons of ice cream and 8000 pounds of butter. Cheese and other dairy products are carried in other compartments.

PROPOSED SCHOOL TAX LEVY SHIFT WOULD SAVE ORANGE COUNTY TAXPAYERS $1,000,000

The California Real Estate association proposal to have the state assume the public schools burden now carried by counties would chop almost $1,000,000 from the amount of taxes raised annually on Orange county real estate. Getting down to the individual property owner, it would clip 63 cents from his county tax rate here in one move. The change would shift the burden from real estate to some other source of taxes, as the state would have to raise the fund.

TO DISTRIBUTE BOWL WORK ON FAMILY BASIS

Plans were being worked out today by Robert Speed, executive secretary of the Santa Ana Unemployment Relief committee, to give work on the civic stadium at the Olive street bowl to men according to the size of their families, he announced.

Speed appeared before the city council last night and was told that he had the power to distribute the work as he best saw fit.

He stated that he would inaugurate a plan for the bowl work among Santa Ana's unemployed similar to that in force by the county. The county plan gives five days of work for the man, five for his wife and allotted number of days for each child in the family. "I think the size of the family should make some difference in dealing out the work," Speed said.

COUNCIL ASKED TO PROTEST POWER TAX

The city council was last night asked to protest proposed taxes on power companies, in a letter received from the Los Angeles department of light and power.

The letter stated that press reports were to the effect that the legislature was contemplating taxing power companies at the rate of one-half cent per kilowatt and brought out the fact that this would cause an unusually heavy burden being placed on the power companies.

The council received and filed the communication, taking no further action, due to the fact that it was not cognizant with any facts concerning the proposed tax.

CHICKEN PERMITS ARE GRANTED THREE

Permits to house chickens in the city of Santa Ana as exceptions to the city ordinance which designates that no more than 25 chickens can be kept on city property without special permission, was given three chicken fenders by the city council last night.

The permits were approved by City Health Officer E. E. Frisby for the following: David Brown, of 1125 South Main street, 160 chickens; C. J. Funk, 1106 South Flower street, 140 chickens and Isaac Thomas, 1722 West Washington avenue, 100 chickens.

Frisby also was made a special police officer under the orders of Chief of Police F. W. Howard, by the council last night.

Status of Road Work In County Shown In Report

Construction reports on over $1,000,000 worth of state highway projects now under way in Orange county, were made at a recent meeting of State Chamber of Commerce leaders at Los Angeles.

Grading and paving on route two from Serra to the San Diego county line, for which $385,500 is budgeted, is 70 per cent complete. Grading and paving from Fullerton to the Los Angeles county line, for which $164,500 is budgeted, is 20 per cent complete. Widening the bridge over the Santa Ana river for which $50,000 was budgeted, is complete. Grading and paving on route 50 from Corona del Mar to Laguna Beach, for which $415,000 is budgeted, is two per cent complete.

Reports covering construction on the state biennial budget for the entire Southern California district were presented at the meeting by the state division of highways. The reports were made to the highway committee of the Southern California council of the State Chamber of Commerce.

BRICKLAYERS PLAN GIFT TO RELIEF FUND

Due to the fact that the wage scale for bricklayers on the new Charles E. Bowers Memorial Museum, being erected at Twentieth and North Main streets has been set by the council at $9.50 per day and the fact that the local union has cut its wage scale to $8 per day, the local here, last night presented the city council with a request that the extra $1.50 be paid just the same so that it can be turned over to the city's unemployment relief fund.

The council, after some discussion, referred the letter to the city attorney for a ruling as to whether the city could take any action on the matter.

The communication was signed by James H. Nicholson, secretary of the local union.

"BILLY" BLACK AT FOURSQUARE CHURCH

The revival meetings in progress at the Foursquare Gospel church are continuing with the Rev. William (Billy) Black, nationally known evangelist, in charge. Meetings are held every night at 7:30 o'clock.

A feature of the services is the musical numbers brought by the Rev. Mr. Black and his wife. They have just completed a two weeks' campaign at the Angelus Temple in Los Angeles where they preached and sang to many thousands.

Evangelist Black conducted a campaign in Santa Ana about four years ago and has many friends who are welcoming him on his return. Interesting services are promised and everyone is invited by the Rev. Wilfred Parham, pastor, to attend.

since 1925 will occur. The sun will be completely obscured for nearly two minutes along a path across Quebec and New England.

URGES USE GAS TAX FUNDS TO RETIRE BONDS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 9.—(UP)—“Gasoline tax funds may be used legitimately to pay interest and redemption charges on old highway bonds.”

This is the contention of Robert A. Vandegrift, state director of finance, in answer to charges that he is attempting to “divert” gasoline tax funds from highway purposes.

“The proposal distinctly is not a diversion of gas tax. The shoe actually is on the other foot. To pay interest and redemption charges out of the general fund puts the burden where it does not belong, namely, upon the taxpayer who does not necessarily use and wear out the roads,” Vandegrift said.

Classes As Maintenance—“Further, it is not logical to maintain that interest and redemption on old highway bonds can be classified as maintenance expense on the old highways so built.”

In the opinion of the director, it is “only reasonable” that the proposed use of $8,459,000 be used in preventing additional taxation in the state when it amounts to “a drop in the bucket” as compared to the $160,000,000 which will have been spent on roads during the present biennium.

“We are going through extraordinary times,” Vandegrift added. “That is why the department of finance is bending every effort to effect economy in state government. That is why I present only a fair proposal in asking that tax money pay for all costs of state roads.”

Says Illogical—Vandegrift further pointed out that it is not logical to continue building highways at the rate of $40,000,000 a year or more and make further expansion and yet “lay a further tax burden upon every taxpayer to meet a deficit caused solely by the sharp drop in state revenues.”

As a further means of tax relief, Vandegrift also urges that gross receipts on bus and truck companies should be placed in the general fund on the ground the gasoline tax pays for the use of the highways.

Orange Loaf Cake

I just adore having women send me pet recipes they have evolved successfully, and offer them to me with the charming diffidence with which this cake recipe was offered by its Mrs. Christopher Columbus.

ORANGE LOAF CAKE

3-4 cup vegetable shortening
1 cup white sugar
1-2 cups sweet milk
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 level teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon orange extract
2 eggs, unbeaten
Grated rind of 1 orange.

Mrs. C. P. C. Cream your favorite brand of vegetable shortening with the sugar, break the two eggs into the bowl and whip till well frothed. Add the milk, then the orange extract. Measure sifted flour, add baking powder and salt and sift once, then again from the sifter directly into the creamed part. Do this quite slowly, mixing carefully as you go along so that the batter will be very velvety. The grated orange rind is added last and the cake is baked in a buttered loaf cake tin in a medium-slow oven. When fully cooked it will have a golden-brown tint.

I do not depend on the test of shrinking-from-pan-edge any more. In these butter cakes that amount of baking is apt to produce too dry a cake. Use a toothpick to test such cakes. When the toothpick comes out of the cake caked with shreds of half raw dough sticking to it, the cake is done.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Creamed Ham Short Cake
1 heaping cup cooked ham, chopped
Minced parsley, bit of bay leaf, and
1 teaspoon grated onion
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1-2 cups milk

Black pepper and pinch of nutmeg.

Biscuit Ingredients

1-2 cups sifted flour
3 level teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons shortening
1-2 teaspoon salt

Sweet milk to make soft dough. Blend butter and flour to a smooth paste, add the milk and stir until you have a smooth thick cream sauce. Place the sauce over hot water, fold in the seasonings and the chopped ham, cover and let simmer until ready to serve.

For the biscuits, soft the measured flour with the baking powder and salt. Work the shortening into the flour with mixer or finger tips, and make a soft dough with milk. Turn the dough onto the moulding board, dredge lightly with flour, pat into shape, knead just enough to shape, and roll out a trifle less than an inch thick. Cut in large rounds, dip each round in melted fat, and bake in a very hot oven. Split the biscuits, fill with creamed ham, put a spoonful over the biscuit and dredge with finely chopped parsley.

For serving at a table it would be nice to make it as an old-fashioned shortcake is made; the dough divided into pieces, rolled out to fit layer-cake tins. The rolled dough ought to be not thicker than 1-2 inch and there might be three of them, with creamed ham between and on top.

The creamed ham will serve four, but the biscuits will allow for an extra panful to eat with honey or jam. The shortcake part would run to about 600 energy calories per person. Be sure and serve a green crisp salad and a low-value cooked vegetable; Sweet and sour cabbage would be good with ham shortcake.

NEED FOR REAL LEADERS TOLD AT MESA RALLY

COSTA MESA, Feb. 9.—Boys everywhere are in need of leadership of the right kind, men of character, who are willing to sacrifice their time for boys' development, said a speaker at a men's and boys' rally held Sunday night at the Community church.

Scouts of troop No. 6, Costa Mesa, in full uniform, and a lively group of about 25 boys, just below scout age, known as the Friendly Indians, assisted in the program.

Following prayer by Scoutmaster Lloyd Willcutt the Scout oath was given by the Scouts. "Yield not to temptation," and "Stand up for Jesus" were sung by the Friendly Indians, directed by their leader, the Rev. O. F. Hasse, with Doris Gibson, piano accompanist.

The Harbor-Hi male quartet gave two Negro spirituals, "I Got Shoes" and "Jerusalem Morning." Miss Marie Hiesch accompanying at the piano. The quartet was composed of Frank Temple, Joe Wilson, James Wheat and Jerry Frary.

The church choir male quartet gave two selections, "Throw Out the Life Line," Mrs. A. F. Hasse accompanying at the piano. The Rev. Mr. Hasse's sermon was on "Boy Heroes of the Bible."

4-H BOYS TO TAKE CARE OF CITY'S TREES

LA HABRA, Feb. 9.—Members of the Boys' 4-H club of La Habra made plans at their meeting Monday night at the Scout hall for their part in the Washington bicentennial program to be held in La Habra. They will construct in miniature a replica of the estate of George Washington at Mt. Vernon, showing the buildings, fields and gardens. Just when this program will be given by the boys was not decided, but it will come within the week of the Washington's birthday celebration.

It was decided that this group would take part in the tree planting program to be held in La Habra Arbor day, March 9. It was also decided that they would accept the invitation to care for the proposed nursery for the growing of ornamental trees, planned by the city council. A lath house will be constructed on the city property and about 3000 trees will be propagated, to be planted later in the city parkways, in conjunction with the uniform tree planting program for La Habra.

A blackboard constructed by John Blair was on display. This blackboard will be used by the 4-H members in advertising their plants and produce for sale and will be placed in the downtown business section.

Those present were Glenn Sutton, Arthur Moore, Jimmie Lauton, Leland Tinker, John and Ivan Conner, John Blair, Billie Bur-nip, Elden Garretson and Clifford Fulton. Gilbert Proud was a visitor.

Indemnity + Prevention = Insurance

When "insurance" means INSURANCE

INSURANCE—as written by stock companies—brings to you not only dependable indemnity but the pledge of many services which prevent those losses for which money cannot pay.

Leadership in fire prevention—better building standards—the testing of materials and devices—the improvement of waterworks systems and fire departments—the prevention and punishment of arson; all these mean insurance to the last degree.

TWO-MAN BOBSLED RECORD BROKEN TWICE

Begin Inter-Club Boxing

ORANGE COUNTY 'TEAM' MEETS L. A. TONIGHT

Hoping to build up some of the rah-rah rivalry that makes the cash register sing a merry tune at scholastic contests, the Orange County Athletic club at Del Mar offers tonight its first series of inter-club boxing matches.

Promoter Elmer Willson and Matchmaker Kid Mexico will bring here ten fighters from the Main Street Athletic club of Los Angeles to meet as many battlers wearing the colors of the south-side punch palace.

If the innovation proves a box office success, Promoter Willson plans to extend the inter-club policy and import teams from all the leading amateur houses in Southern California of which there are now many. It is even possible that an inter-club league will be organized, this depending, of course, on the interest displayed in experiments at the various arenas. Promoters claim these efforts are for the purpose of developing talent for the coming Olympic games.

Matchmaker Mexico believes his team is sufficiently strong to hold its own with the Main Street aggregation although the boxers there are of slightly wider experience.

The ten-hour lineup, with each scheduled for three or less rounds, follows:

Knockout Slater, Main Street, vs. Frank Lockhart, Santa Ana, 118 pounds.

Young Chocolate, Main Street, vs. Bill Wanda, Santa Ana, 138 pounds.

Young Chalky Wright, Main Street, vs. Tommy White, Santa Ana, 135 pounds.

Mike Front, Main Street, vs. Coley Rumsower, Santa Ana, 126 pounds.

Roy Brown, Main Street, vs. Frank Genaro, Santa Ana, 118 pounds.

Joey Ford, Main Street, vs. Kid Freeman, Santa Ana, 135 pounds.

Eddie Steele, Main Street, vs. George Toher, Santa Ana, 160 pounds.

Joe Hennet, Main Street, vs. Sammy Martinez, Santa Ana, 145 pounds.

Russell O'Connor, Main Street, vs. Louie Medina, Santa Ana, 135 pounds.

Nick Redondo, Main Street, vs. Baby Sal Solis, Santa Ana, 126 pounds.

Trojan Staleness Feared by Coaches

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Light work for the regulars but plenty of hard practice for the reserves will be on the training program of the University of Southern California basketball squad for the remainder of the week as Coach Sam Barry strives to get his league leading Trojans in top shape to meet U. C. L. A. at the Olympic auditorium here Saturday night.

Despite the fact that they won both their games from Stanford by good margins last week-end, the Southern Californians showed symptoms of staleness from their long season when they missed many set-ups after working the ball under the basket and when they "blew" a majority of their free throws.

SHORT SPORT STORIES

Today's best piece of gossip: "Jeff" Cravath, Santa Ana's first All-American footballer, will be on the coaching staff at Southern California as another blunder has been kicked in the Coliseum.

Some changes may be expected at Bovard field as an aftermath of the unfortunate Hawkins affair, and the dope from the old feedbox is that Cravath will be replacement No. 1.

"Jeff" winds up three unhappy years at Denver U. with the coming baseball season. He'll be glad to get home.

Carl Ruecker's Santa Ana Sunday baseball club may not have established any records in the percentage tables or at the box office but for a talented team is sending its share of players to the training camps this spring.

Pitcher Al Stoner reports to Los Angeles at Brookside park, Pasadena, February 22. Collegian "Sved" Whisler leaves for Topeka the following day. Johnny Rice, southpaw outfielder who belonged to Anaheim's night ball group, goes to Pittsburgh's camp at Paso Robles on the 21st. Willard Hersherberg joins Hollywood about the same time. Others likely to go out for tryouts are Orv Schuchardt and Arch Carpenter.

Tom Scudder, Santa Ana, placed third in recent two individual rifle matches at 50 feet, conducted throughout the United States by the National Rifle association.

Santa Diego Hi has decided to struggle through the '32 football campaign without a captain. Reason: No outstanding candidate.

Vincent Cox, substitute halfback with Santa Ana Hi's 1930 football boys, is back in school this semester, will be eligible in the fall. So will Wayne Gross, a promising back who performed for the Santa "Bees" two years ago, and Herb Duncan, sizeable prospect for Coach "Tex" Oliver's depleted backfield. Missing, however, is Herb Bowe, who for an athlete yet to earn his first Saint letter has received more favorable mention than any other. Bowe apparently is going to be written down as one of those young men who might have been but wasn't.

Rajah Shipley wants it distinctly understood that his "Wild Man" Macias who won ten straight heats from Tommy Huffman at Wilmington last week, is NOT the Macias who recently went horizontal in a round at Hollywood.

GOLF PLAY POSTPONED

SAN CLEMENTE, Feb. 9.—Due to rain, the regular tourney of the Orange County Coast association golf tournament, to have been played at San Clemente Monday, was postponed to next Monday. A barbecue will follow the tourney. It will be held at the Ben Osterman ranch at El Toro.

S. A. COLLEGE AGAIN ASSURED BASEBALL TEAM

Reviving the unsettled baseball situation at Santa Ana junior college, members of the college executive board, listening to recommendations made by G. A. ("Tex") Oliver, head of the physical education department, and Dante Stracusa, associated student president, yesterday unofficially voted 4 to 4 to retain the sport in 1932, but shelved attendant financial problems until a later date.

That enough Dons are interested to sponsor a team this season has been evidenced by a canvass made by Wilton Hilliard, former commissioner of athletics, showing that more than 20 experienced candidates are awaiting the opening call from Coach Clyde Cook.

At a previous discussion of the baseball situation, it was decided to place the sport in the 1931-32 budget, but failure to raise the entire funds called for has made necessary a 12-1-2 per cent slash in all departments, and the baseball matter has come up for reconsideration.

Josephine Cruickshank was finally ranked No. 12 by the dictatorial U. S. Lawn Tennis association. Above her were many of the soundly thrashed by the first lady of Santa Ana's courts.

To make room at first base for Santa Ana's forkhander Curtis Youel, U. S. C. baseball coaches have made an outfielder out of their robust-hitting captain, Garret Arbelbide.

Urges Student Support

Oliver, in a short address to board members, stressed the fact, that unless a daily turnout of 13 candidates can be assured, together with adequate support from the student body, baseball might as well be dropped and the money designated for it used to better advantage.

Reports that baseball attendance during the past seasons has not been gratifying were challenged this week by Commissioner Hilliard and Bob dePre, 1931 manager, who claim that representative crowds witnessed every game.

On account of the wide fence at Poly field, it is impossible to charge admission, and as a result, attendance records have not been kept. It was pointed out that at the Fullerton game here last year fans lined both sides of the diamond, from third to first base, the bleachers being well filled.

Walter Wilson, present commissioner of men's athletics, expressed himself as being opposed to the spring sport, inasmuch as the Dons won only three out of six conference games and barely had enough men on the field to meet their engagements. Outgoing commissioner Hilliard immediately pointed out that the 1931 baseball team had a better showing than the Dons' football machine, and financially, although not making any money because of free admission, did not go in the hole $500, as did 1931 football.

Equipment on Way

President Stracusa and Vice-President Roy Wheeler believe that the discontinuance of baseball would be a step backwards for the college and stated that the sport should be left on the calendar as originally planned.

More than $300 worth of equipment, including 12 new suits, a large assortment of bats and a complete catcher's outfit, is on the road and should be here this week, it was reported.

Team material is as strong, if not stronger, than that of past seasons, with the following on the list expecting to report during the latter part of this month, should baseball receive official approval: Jimmie Hall, "Hen" Thilery, Les Puleston, Duke Stracusa, Ervin Watkins, Veri Moyer, Ellwood Lindley, Hideo Higashi, Joe Crafts, Wilton Hilliard, "Bono" Korol, Leo Gaspar, Emmett Seacord, Alfred Peterson and Earl Homan, infielders; Burton Allen, Russell Sullivan, James Danerl, Robert Beaver, George Berry, Fred Pinkerton and Lewis Vandermast, outfielders.

The heavyweight championship bout between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey at Yankee stadium June 16 is the only bout definitely closed. Four later bouts planned are:

Tony Cannonieri, lightweight champion, vs. Kid Chocolate; Billy Petrolle or possibly "Bat" Battalino, if "Bat" is restored to good standing here.

Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver, B. C., vs. the winner of the proposed welterweight championship bout between Champion Jackie Fields and Petrolle.

A fifteen-round bout between Primo Camera and Ernie Schaaf. Schaaf vs. Mickey Walker.

In addition, Johnston would feature Sharkey in a September match if Jack defeats Schmeling. The latter, however, is not expected to fight again in September if he defends his title successfully against Sharkey.

Kieckhefer Champ In Three Cushions

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Auggie Kieckhefer, veteran Chicago southpaw, again is the holder of the world's three-cushion billiard championship. He defeated Otto Reisel, Philadelphia, in the final game last night, 50-27, 40 innings, for the 1932 world's title.

This is his tenth championship emblem and equals the record held by Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo. Kieckhefer won about $10,000 in capturing the final game. Reisel will play off a second place tie with Art Thurnblad, Chicago.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . By Laufer

THEY ALL LAUGHED WHEN MAX CAREY grabbed a broom and hit a home run—and this is how it happened: The Pirates were playing a picked team at St. Marys, Ohio. Hans Wagner and Bill Hinchman were veterans then and Max Carey and "Lefty" Cooper were youngsters. It rained in the morning and at game time the field was one big puddle. Loads of sawdust were spread about home plate and the bases. A broom was provided to keep the sawdust leveled. The Pirates took a huge early lead. Then, in a late inning, Carey came to bat. After taking two swings, he dropped his bat, while the home-talent pitcher was winding up, seized the broom and swung from the hips. The ball plopped weakly toward third, and the pitcher seized it. But the cover was wet and the pitcher threw far over first base. Carey dashed for second. The first baseman heaved wildly into deep left field. Carey galloped home, and since everybody was having so much fun, they let the run count.

HI TRACKSTERS WORK INDOORS TO SHED RAIN

Partially overcoming the handicap of a sopping wet track, members of Coach Clyde Patton's Santa Ana high school track team, under the guidance of "Chuck" Webber and "Red" Guyer, former U. S. C. stars, went through a lengthy workout in Andrews gymnasium yesterday.

Using one corner of the small gym for limbering up exercises and dividing the remaining floor space for his runners and hurdlers, Coach Patton supervised while Guyer drilled the Saints on the proper way to start. Webber spent the entire afternoon teaching "Red" Kidder, Duane Larabee, Walter Hendrie and Harold Clem how to improve their stride in the high hurdles.

A high hurdle was placed at one end of the gym, Kidder, Larabee, Hendrie, and Clem taking turns at clearing it. According to Webber, Kidder looms as the most powerful hurdler of the four. Hendrie has the best form, while Larabee, having practiced more than the rest, is showing the greatest improvement. Clem is a tall, fast runner, and should make a good hurdler just as soon as he improves his form.

Coach Webber hopes to conduct a series of relays at Poly field Friday. Water on the football runs off faster than it does on the track, and if only the gridiron is dry Friday, Webber may go ahead with his plans, as he did last week, his men running from goal post to goal post.

Other promising candidates in suit yesterday included Walter Cleveland, "Porky" Bell, Larry Velarde, Arthur Stranski, Floyd Montgomery, Clair Preninger and Frank Ronsholdt.

Santa Ana has only nine more days to practice before it enters the Orange Show Relays at San Bernardino February 20.

Athletics Release Slab Veteran Hoyt

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Walter Hoyt, 32-year-old right-handed pitcher, undertaker and hero of many world series games, today was a player without a team. The Philadelphia Athletics gave him his unconditional release.

Pressmen At Lake Placid Bewildered

BY HENRY MCLEMORE

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(UP)—For the all time bewildered prize the press room of the Olympic stadium yesterday before, during and after the men's fancy skating competition is nominated.

Fourteen karat, hand sewn, full fashioned, guaranteed not to rip, ravel-or-run-at-the-heel bewildering was there.

You could cut the ignorance with a knife.

"There's only one thing to do," Hupp of the Blade was saying when I arrived, "and that's to say it's been postponed indefinitely."

The Editor's Sister

"No, we can't do that," says Baybreak of the Morning Courier Journal Post. "At least I can't. The editor of my paper has a wife, a fussy old sister who is bugs about this sort of thing and she'll be grabbing the first editions. Let's take a poll and see if we can't find one bird who knows what it's all about."

The poll revealed three boxing experts, one automobile editor, three baseball writers, a couple of guys who wrote everything but skating, and a chap who hadn't seen anything but tennis for the past 14 years.

"If it's anything at all like tennis," the tennis fellow said, "I can do it."

"Isn't Like Anything

"This stuff," said Hupp, "isn't like anything. Just look down there and get a load of what's going on. The next thing you know they'll have paper doll cutting competitions, and rolling the hoop at 50 meters."

A press runner came in and announced the ice skaters had completed "the rocker" and had started on the "change double change."

"What's this rocker business, anyway?" asked Malarkey of the Bulletin Call Constitution.

Someone volunteered that the "rocker" was where the skaters either stood still and rocked back and forth, or cut a design shaped like a rocking chair.

In desperation, Signafores of the Playhouse Standard Eagle was sent out in search of a spectator who knew what it was all about. Thirty minutes later, just after the press

DEMPSEY'S OLD PUNCH IS HOPE IN 'COMEBACK'

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The Dempsey of 1932 is a long way from the Dempsey who conquered Willard, Miske, Brennan, Carpenter and Piro.

But Dempsey is far from finished as a fighter. He has a chance, and a good one, to whip himself back into as good or better shape than he was for either of his battles with Gene Tunney in 1926 and 1927. Whether that will be good enough to win back for him the heavyweight title is a question that only can be settled by actual combat.

The surest thing about the new Dempsey is his punch. His legs may go back on him, his stamina may desert him, and he may become weary of body but Dempsey's punch probably will remain as long as he lives.

Still Punches Viciously

Dempsey proved that he punches just as viciously as ever in the opening of his second exhibition tour here last night before 7877 persons who paid $14,970 to get a glimpse of him in two bouts of two rounds duration.

Wearing 10-ounce gloves, Dempsey had his two opponents on the

SWISS DRIVER LEADS OLYMPIC SLIDE DIVERS

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Peto Capadrutt, young Swiss driver, led the field today when the preliminary heats of the two-man bobsled competition of the third Winter Olympic Games were complete.

Capadrutt had a total of 4:13.09 for the two heats, having done the two runs in 2:05.88 and the second in 2:07.21.

His first run established a new world record and the mark was broken in the second heat when J. Hubert Stevens of the United States made the run in 2:04.27. This later run, coupled with Stevens' first heat time of 2:13.1, placed him in second place with the day's competition complete. Stevens' total time was 4:17.37.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(UP)—With the four Olympic speed skating champions tucked safely away in Uncle Sam's vast pocket, sports enthusiasts turned for thrills today to the icy bod run on Mt. Van Heevenburg.

With memories of Irving Jafree's spectacular victory in yesterday's 10,000 meter skating final still fresh in their minds, enthusiasts plodded through knee deep snow today to watch 13 two-man bobs teams, representing eight nations, flash down the slide's glare ice in their races against stop watch and catastrophe.

The bobs races were virtually certain to get underway today, because last night's snow storm stopped before midnight. The air is freezing cold. The bog run should be in mile-a-minute shape.

The United States became the first nation to win all four skating laurels when Jack Shea of Lake Placid won the 500 and 1500 meter events, and Jafree took the 1000 and 10,000 meter races.

Frank Stack of Canada came third, with Eddie Wedge of Detroit, Valentine Bilas of Utica and Bert Evensen of Norway coming behind in the order named. The time was 19:13.6.

While Jafree was winning the 10,000 meters at the stadium, future skating competition got underway at the arena. Winners of this event will be announced tonight. Experts in the stands believe Karl Schaefer of Austria, the world's champion, made the best showing yesterday, with Montgomery Wilson of Canada, second and Rodger F. Turner of the United States, third.

Jean Wilson, Canada, won the 500-meter women's speed skating demonstration, after trailing until the field was well in the home stretch. She covered the distance in 58 seconds flat.

S. C. TRACK SEASON OPENS FEBRUARY 20

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Meeting their first outside competition of the season, track and field candidates of the University of Southern California will face Occidental in a practice dual meet Feb. 20 at Oxy. Coach Dean Cromwell of the Trojans announced today. The contest will be a handi-cap affair similar to the dual meet held between the same two institutions last year.

Although some of U. S. C.'s outstanding prospects have only had a week of training behind them and as yet are far from their ability of last year, several Trojans have been showing surprisingly good early season form. In practice tryouts on Harvard field last week-end, a number of good performances resulted, outstanding among them being Dick Barber's 23 feet, 11 inches in the broad jump, Frank Williamson's 188 feet, 4 inches in the javelin throw, Art Woessner's 50.8 seconds in the 440, Cliff Halstead's 3 minutes flat in the half-mile and Bill Graber's 12 feet, 6 inches in the pole vault.

200 Attend Joint Session Of Chamber And Club

CITY GROWTH DISCUSSED BY WHITTIER MAN

ORANGE, Feb. 9.—Nearly 200 were present at the joint meeting of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce and the Business and Professional Women's club last night, Stanley Mansur, president of the former organization, presiding. Miss Ruth Parker, president of the women's organization, was introduced and members of the club were seated at one table. Tables were centered with candles in pastel tints and the speaker's table was decorated with low bowls of sweet peas.

Burt Martin, secretary of the Whittier Chamber of Commerce, was the speaker of the evening, and chose as his subject "The Community-Minded Man." Martin declared that there were two kinds of growth, mechanical growth and organic growth. A city is like a child, he said, and has an organic growth, a thing which cannot be definitely seen but which is a slow and gradual development requiring years to discern. What the city of Orange will be 20 years hence it what it is becoming February 9, 1932, the speaker pointed out.

"Monuments should be placed to those who have fought the battles of the community," said Martin. "The community-minded man is the greatest asset of the city, for with him all things are possible and without him, you are helpless."

"One of the first things which should be done in community building is to make a city the thought center of the community. People should be attracted to the city and in this way they will center their thoughts and activities in the place where they buy the necessities of life for their families. A clerk is a representative of his employer, and a bank clerk is the representative of the banker."

Martin announced that V. D. Johnson had been selected as the speaker of the meeting of the secretaries of chambers of commerce of Southern California at Mt. Lowe in March.

Mrs. George Swift Harper was in charge of the music for the evening and a trio including Miss Kathryn Sumner, violinist; Miss Dorothy Rossiter, cellist, and Miss

CLUB SECTION TOLD HISTORY OF LEAP YEAR

ORANGE, Feb. 9.—The legends and history of St. Valentine's day were given yesterday at the regular meeting of the Toastmasters' section of the Orange Woman's club by Mrs. B. R. Stanley and the history and legends connected with the observance of leap year were given by Mrs. C. W. Coffey.

In 1288 a law permitting women to propose to men actually was passed in Scotland and later the same law was passed in France, Genoa and Florence. In England and other countries it became customary for men who received proposals to soften the blow of their refusal by presenting the woman honoring them with a silk dress. Scotland's law provided that the man pay the woman 25 shillings. Mrs. Coffey declared, but the privilege of proposal granted women was limited to the time set by St. Patrick from January 1 to February 29.

Mrs. B. D. Stanley gave an interesting talk on St. Valentine's day and related how the day, once a Memorial day to a martyred saint, had become in the passing of centuries a day for lovers. St. Valentine was beheaded for his faith early in the Christian era.

HOOVER ADDRESS AND GREAT CHORUS WILL INAUGURATE BICENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

President Hoover will officially open the nine-months, nation-wide George Washington Bicentennial celebration at 9 a. m., Pacific Time, on February 22, when he will deliver his George Washington address before a joint meeting of Congress, assembled in the house of representatives in the capitol. The judges of the supreme court, members of the cabinet, foreign diplomats and many other distinguished visitors also will be present, and the address will be carried to every corner of America over a nation-wide hook-up.

Following his address, President Hoover will be escorted to the east steps of the capitol, and will give the signal for the singing of "America" by a chorus of 10,000 voices. It is expected that millions of people will join in this "sing" as it comes over the air.

The great chorus gathered at the capitol will be conducted by Walter Damrosch and will be accompanied by the United States army, navy and marine bands which will play as a unit under the direction of John Philip Sousa. An "inaugural" size crowd is expected to be on hand for these ceremonies.

At Mt. Vernon

After luncheon, President Hoover, accompanied by the members of the United States George Washington Bicentennial commission and the District of Columbia Bicentennial commission will go to Mount Vernon to lay a wreath on the tomb of the Father of His Country in the name of a united nation.

At 3 p. m., eastern time, there will be exercises at the Washington monument under the auspices of the various patriotic societies in the District of Columbia.

In the evening the George Washington Colonial Costume ball will be held at the Mayflower hotel under the auspices of the United States George Washington Bicentennial commission and the District of Columbia Bicentennial commission. No effort is being spared to reproduce the Colonial atmosphere for this occasion. The affair is being managed by experts and every state will be represented by specially invited guests.

While the celebration officially opens on February 22, Sunday February 21, will be an active day in the District of Columbia as well as in every city in America. The United States George Washington Bicentennial commission has suggested special religious services for George Washington to be held wherever people gather to worship. Response from the various church organizations to this project has been remarkable. It is probable that practically all of the 22,000 churches will hold special services honoring the first president on this day.

A folk-masque written especially for the United States George Washington Bicentennial commission by Percy MacKaye will be presented at Constitution hall.

WOMAN AIDED BY FUND HERE IS IMPROVING

Readers of The Register will recall with interest the case of Mamie Henderson, young mother who was paralyzed as the result of an automobile accident, and who was given such generous assistance by the kindly people of this community. They will recall that through that assistance, Mrs. Henderson was taken to the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., and later was aided in every manner that was possible.

Unfortunately her general health was so poor at the time she reached the Mayo clinic that surgeons there felt it impossible to operate in an effort to restore the use of her lower extremities, and she was advised to wait until her general health improved. Mrs. Henderson, who was the daughter of Mrs. Mary Lewis of this city, returned to Santa Ana with her husband, Ralph Henderson, and their two little children, several months after the accident which cost her her health and the use of her legs. Then after her condition was found so puzzling to the Mayo specialists, she and her husband returned here to make their home with Mrs. Lewis.

But there was no work obtainable for the husband, and reluctantly he and his invalid wife went back to Red Cliff, Colo., accompanied by Mrs. Henderson's sister, Miss Pearl Lewis, who has assumed all care of the helpless young mother, and of her two small children. Last week Mamie Henderson celebrated her birthday anniversary, and the Rev. U. E. Harding, of the Church of the Nazarene, aware of the date, informed members of his congregation and various friends who had been so helpful to the little family while it was here. As a result, Mrs. Henderson was delighted with a post-card shower. In a letter expressing her gratitude, she said to the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Harding: "I am so grateful to you both for the lovely card shower. I received 22 cards and several lovely handkerchiefs. Words can't express the happiness it gave me."

"I am getting much better. I can't move my limbs but the sores on my body are about healed and I feel so much better. God gets all the glory."

"We have so much snow. Last week it was 40 degrees below zero. I can't get out here in the winter. Tell everyone we think of them. Please pray for us."

Miss Pearl Lewis is a member of the Church of the Nazarene, as is Mrs. Lewis, mother of the two. Miss Lewis will remain in Colorado as long as the need for her ministrations is so urgent.

Orange County Gets $71,384 In State Gas Tax Split

CITY JOINS IN
ABANDONMENT

Representatives of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, the city council of Santa Ana and representatives from Huntington Beach and towns between Santa Ana and the beach city were to attend a meeting of the railroad commission in Los Angeles today to protest a request by the Motor Transit company to abandon its bus service between Santa Ana and Huntington Beach.

George Raymer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the city council last night to ask the city's support in protesting the move. He said the Motor Transit company desired to remove the service, due to poor business, but that it would work a hardship on Santa Ana merchants and said the Chamber of Commerce would do all in its power to keep the service.

C. H. Eckles, operator of the city bus lines, stated that he would be present at the meeting with an idea of taking over the Huntington Beach-Santa Ana service provided he could get it and the commission allowed the service now operating to be discontinued.

The council passed a resolution protesting the discontinuance of the service which will be presented to the railroad commission today.

WILL BEGIN SERIES OF STUDY SESSIONS

The first of a series of Wednesday night study dinners will be held tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in the First Congregational church. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. Following, E. M. Nealley will give his first lecture on "Psychology for the Layman." Two group meetings will follow this lecture.

The World Friendship group will stay in the dining room and the speaker will be Dr. Luther Freeman, of Pomona, who will speak on "Japan in Manchuria and China." Dr. Freeman once lived in China, and recently has returned from an extended visit in the Orient.

The Rev. John R. Lyons, director of religious education in the Congregational church in Claremont, will be the speaker at the meeting of the religious education group. He will discuss "What Is the Real Purpose of a Church School?" and "How Organize to Accomplish That Purpose."

DIXIE QUARTET
TO SING FOR FUND BENEFIT

As a benefit for the Student Latin fund of the Santa Ana Junior college the Dixie Jubilee quartet will present a program of Negro music, humorous and popular selections in the high school auditorium here next Friday at 7:30 p. m. Their appearance will be sponsored by the junior college and high school Parent-Teacher associations.

According to the manager of the quartet, Arthur D. Lawrence, "There is always something about the music of colored singers which touches a responsive chord in the heart of every listener. They sing the old folk songs of the South in their own inimitable way. There is nothing so full of genuine sweetness, so full of melody as these old Negro songs and it takes the real Negro to sing them as they should be sung."

"The program of the Dixie Jubilee quartet includes a goodly number of these plantation melodies and spirituals for which their voices are so peculiarly adapted. However, while the folk-lore songs are favored the program is interspersed with many humorous and popular selections, as well as attractive features."

"Every man of the Dixie Jubilee Quartet is a vocal soloist and one reads from Paul Laurence Dunbar's works so this combination of talent, together with a very fine strain of light comedy in the quartet work, makes a happy combination."

U. S. Income Tax Worker at Beach City Three Days
HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 9.—A federal income tax worker will be at the chambers of commerce offices February 15, 16 and 17 to assist those who have to pay income taxes in making out their papers. The service will be free.

AIDING BUREAU

George A. Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, and chairman of the Industrial Division of President Hoover's Unemployment committee, in Orange county today requested all manufacturers in Orange county to co-operate with the bureau of census by filling out promptly their census of manufacturers questionnaires.

Raymer pointed out that the questionnaires are very brief, covering only four major statistical items. "The value of the statistics to manufacturers, depends largely on whether they are timely," he said, "and their timeliness depends on the promptness with which the questionnaires are returned by the manufacturers."

The 1931 questionnaire is considerably smaller than the one used for the 1929 canvass. This is due to the fact that the 1931 census is one of the regular biennial series and does not fall within the decennial series, as did the census for 1929, when the questionnaires were expanded considerably.

The major items covered by the 1931 questionnaires are only four in number, namely: Wage earners employed, by month; wages paid; cost of materials, fuel and purchased electrical energy; and products by quantity and value.

For the first three of these items the inquiries are uniform for all industries, whereas the fourth varies greatly for different industries, according to the character and the variety of products made. The questionnaires for a few of the industries carry, in addition, special inquiries in regard to materials consumed and machinery or equipment in use.

Reunions and Picnics

COLORADO
President L. E. Gabber, of the Colorado State society, has announced the annual picnic for all former residents of that state. It will be held all day, Sunday, February 14, in Sycamore Grove Park, Los Angeles, with basket dinners at noon. He promises a popular program and that county registers and headquarters will be open all day so friends may meet each other. The program will follow the dinner hour and hot coffee will be supplied.

WISCONSIN
All persons who ever lived in Wisconsin are invited to meet for the great picnic reunion, all day Saturday, February 13, in Sycamore Grove Park, Los Angeles. There will be county registers and headquarters so all can find the old neighbors. There will be a brief program opening about 2 o'clock but the main purpose will be to have a good time. All the tourists and visitors from the old home state as well as our residents are invited so as to make this the greatest picnic in our history. The president, Col. Frank H. True will preside. Each one who learns of this picnic is asked to pass the word along. Information may be had of C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State societies, Hotel Alexandria, Los Angeles, Mutual 0171.

"PROPS" OF COURT DRAMAS
FILED AWAY IN EXHIBIT ROOM

All the properties in the never ending drama that is enacted day by day in the superior courts of Orange county—the guns, the dry legal documents, the commonplace and the bizarre, things people have fought over, worked for, laughed and cried over perhaps—all have been preserved, tagged and filed away in the basement of the court house.

A room in the basement, known as the exhibit room, recently has been given over to this array of objects which people have brought into court to prove the myriad contentions that bring them before the bar of justice.

In sacks tucked away in orderly pigeon holes lie these things that people have used and worked and fought with—stored away in a much more orderly way probably than the lives of the people who used them.

One section of the room is given over to exhibits in civil cases, and these ordinarily are the less dramatic. But between the lines of some document may lie a romance. Some old map may be preserving an important fact in the drama of history. Tied up in one of the neat white sacks may be the key to a life story that never will be told.

The criminal section of the room bristles with guns, knives, pruning shears, screw drivers—a variegated arsenal containing probably what was closest at hand when "the fight started." Sometimes a case arises which calls one of these exhibits from its resting place back to the court room. And County Clerk J. M. Backs, in whose charge they have been placed, has had them arranged so that the wheels of justice don't have to slow down while the desired one is being brought before the court.

JUDGE DAWSON WARNING GIVEN
WILL SPEAK TO BY GOVERNMENT
LEGION POST ON U. S. JOBS

The Santa Ana post, American Legion will hold its biggest meeting of the year Thursday night starting with a dinner to be served at 6:30 p. m. at the Legion hall on Birch street, according to an announcement made today by Arthur Ecklund, post adjutant.

Judge Leroy Dawson, of Los Angeles, will be the principal speaker. His subject is not known here, but Judge Dawson is noted throughout Southern California as a humorous speaker and local Legion men are looking forward to his visit here.

Ecklund also announced that there would be a speaker on "National Defense," a timely subject due to the many corner discussions concerning the strength of the United States, Japan and other countries which seem to be in vogue now.

Special entertainment for the vets also is promised at the dinner meeting.

Court Notes

The will of the late Daniel Joseph Boyd, who died on December 31, 1931, has been filed for probate in superior court by P. E. Coleman, executor. The estate is valued at not more than $15,000. Katherine Coleman and Maude Barker, daughters residing in Santa Ana, are the only Orange county heirs.

Superior Judge H. G. Ames has approved compromise of a disputed claim wherein payment of $365 by Hubert J. Comes has been authorized for injuries suffered by Eunice Winger, 13, in an automobile accident at Ball road and Palm street, Anaheim, on December 5. The car in which she was riding was involved in a collision with the Comes machine, the petition for compromise said.

Christine Lambert of Orange has petitioned the superior court for letters of administration in the estate of the late Allen E. Lambert, who died on June 25, 1929, at Orange. The estate is valued at not more than $3700 in the petition. The petitioner is the widow and sole heir listed residing in Orange county.

An estate valued at not more than $15,000 was left by the late Gertrude M. Sumner of Laguna Beach, who died on January 23, 1932, according to a petition for letters of administration with will annexed, which has been filed in superior court by the First National bank of Santa Ana. The will, which was in the possession of Marjorie Perry Cummer, a daughter, named no executor and she declined to act, nominating the bank, the petition said.

LUBOVISKI TO APPEAR WITH
CANTANDO CLUB

Announcement of a Cantando club concert is always productive of interest and anticipation in the minds of Santa Ana and Orange county music lovers in general, so it will be agreeable news to them that the famous singing club is to give the second of its season's concerts on Tuesday night, February 16, in the Santa Ana High school auditorium.

The Cantando club, whose membership of 60 is drawn from the leading business and professional men of the community, has won an enviable place for itself among musical organizations of the Southland, and now in its sixth season is recognized as a male chorus ranking with the best which the large musical centers can boast.

For its concert Tuesday night, the club has been fortunate in securing as guest artist, Calmon Luboviski, well-known concert violinist of Hollywood, and generally recognized as one of the finest musicians in the country. He has appeared in recitals in this city where his technique and general musicianship have met with unqualified appreciation. His admirers and music lovers in general will welcome his return as guest artist of the Cantando club. His accompanist will be Miss Eunice Landrum, Los Angeles pianist who likewise is well known in Orange county.

The club has prepared a well-balanced program for the coming concert, which, under the skillful direction of Leon Eckles, and with Miss Ruth Armstrong as accompanist, promises to be one of the most popular in club history.

Officers of the Cantando club are W. K. Hillyard, chairman; A. J. Garraway, vice-chairman; J. E. Lloyd, secretary-treasurer; Charles H. Wollaston, Harry Warne and Leon Eckles, directors.

Santa Ana Woman,
Ill, Advised Of Death In Family

Details of funeral rites for James Dixon Lacey, prominent banker and lumberman of New Windsor, N. Y., and New Orleans, La., have reached his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Emerson, 810 Riverine avenue. His death, late in January, in New Orleans, followed only a few months after that of his wife, Matie E. Windsor Lacey, Mrs. Emerson's sister.

When details of the funeral reached Mrs. Emerson in this city, they found her confined to her bed as the result of a fall which she experienced last Wednesday in her home. Fortunately no bones were broken, but she is suffering from painful bruises, which complicate the effect of a recent illness, make it necessary for her to remain in bed under the care of a nurse.

The total allotment to California counties was $5,054,911. Portions of Orange county's gasoline tax receipts have been used this year by the board of supervisors in administering the unemployment relief program through the welfare department. Gasoline tax income coupled with other road funds available are regarded as a foundation for the hope that the county tax rate will remain at its present or a lower figure despite the unemployment problem.

Money derived from California's three cent per gallon tax on gasoline is divided three ways, as follows: One cent—To the state division of highways, for construction of new highways under the initiative act of 1923. One cent—To the state division of highways, for maintenance and construction of new highways. One cent—To the 58 38 counties of the state, for use in county highway construction and maintenance.

Riley's announcement came during a heated public dispute over the question of disposing of the gasoline tax revenue. Rolland A. Vandegriff, state director of finance, has advocated that interest and redemption of old state highway bond issues be paid from the gasoline tax receipts.

At present this interest and redemption comes out of the state's general fund, which, Vandegriff contends, places an unnecessary tax burden on the small taxpayer.

W. V. Whitson Home Setting for Two Dinner Parties

The second dinner bridge at which Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Whitson were recent hosts took place last evening at their home, 517 South Ross street, when the Whitsons entertained for a dozen of their friends. The first affair, to which an equal number were bidden, occurred Saturday night and was also given in their home.

Valentine appointments prevailed at each dinner, place cards characteristic of this holiday elaborating upon the theme, while a graceful bouquet of red sweet peas accentuated the red and white color scheme employed.

Following last night's dinner, guests indulged in bridge, the result of which first and consolation awards among the women players were won by Mrs. W. D. Ranney and Mrs. E. C. Erwin, while corresponding prizes went to W. E. Hennion and George Goodwin.

Assembled for this affair were Messrs. and Mesdames W. D. Ranney, E. C. Erwin, W. E. Hennion, Charles Walker, George Goodwin and Martin Elliott.

At the earlier party, the bridge session brought prizes to Mrs. J. E. Paul, high, and Mrs. James Turley, low; and to Hugh Wiley, high and John Harvey, low among the men.

Bidden to Saturday's dinner were Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Paul and Messrs. and Mesdames James Turley, Harrison Tracy Smith, John E. Gowen, Hugh Wiley, and John Harvey.

Tenth Anniversary of Ebbl Section Will Be Observed

Quiet Church Wedding Followed By Home Reception

Friends of Miss Louise Maslin and Raymond Earl Trueblood were interested today in learning details of their marriage, which took place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Ann's rectory. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maslin of Broken Bow, Neb., and Mr. Trueblood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Trueblood, of this city.

Father Noonan read the marriage rites, which were attended by close relatives and friends. For the occasion the bride wore a matching white sports suit with matching accessories and a corsage bouquet of yellow roses. She was attended by Miss Bertha Williams as maid of honor, who was becomingly dressed in a Nassau blue suit, wearing a corsage of pink roses. John Van Dyke served as best man.

Wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, Percival I. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Burns, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Santall, the Misses Anna and Mary Santall, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Trueblood, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Trueblood. It was regretted that the bride's parents could not attend the ceremony.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the Trueblood home at 1420 South Parton street. A delicious three-course menu was served. The hundred friends and relatives assembled for the memorable occasion. Tables were brightly lit with seasonal flowers in pastel colors, and a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake in white and silver was of special interest. Mrs. R. R. Trueblood presided as hostess.

Shortly after the reception, the new Mr. and Mrs. Trueblood left for a northern honeymoon, with plans to be home for about a week. On their return, they will make their home in Santa Ana. Both Mr. and Mrs. Trueblood attended Santa Ana high school and junior college. Mr. Trueblood is employed at the Central Auto Body Works, while for the past year, his bride has been in the office of the Santa Ana Laundry.

Travel Lecture Wins Approval of Ebbl Audience

That the United States government has completed the initial surveys for a canal across Nicaragua which will supplement the Panama canal, and afford passage for the largest ships that the coming century may evolve, was only one of the many interesting things which Ebbl society members were told yesterday afternoon by Colonel Wilbur S. Tupper in his forceful and illuminating address on "Between the Canal and the Rio Grande."

Colonel Tupper was presented as the chief program feature of the monthly business meeting of Ebbl society, after the necessary business discussion led by the president, Mrs. Paul Bailey. Proceeding him on the program was the song by the Mothersingers, the group of "Parent-Teacher association" members, directed by Frances Hunt and with Mrs. Harry G. Webb as accompanist.

For their debut before the Ebbl society, the women were assisted by Robert Brown, singing the solo part of "Reve Angelique" by Rubinstein, and Miss Georgia Walcott, playing a violin obligato. The number was extraordinarily effective as rendered by this progressive group, whose ensemble work came in for the warm appreciation of the Ebbl women. Mr. Brown's rendering of the solo part was masterly, and Miss Walcott's violin technique added the final touch of beauty.

Colonel Tupper, presented as speaker after the exit of the singers, told of the bonds uniting the countries of Latin America to the United States; the Platt amendment and its bearing on Cuba; the Panama canal, and other smaller but none the less important factors, such as the accessibility and beauty of the tropics, their rich productivity, and the fact that the world is daily becoming more "tropical minded."

He pointed out that in the productivity there was little comparison with the temperate zones, and that more and more the tropics would become the producing centers of the world.

He denied any statement of sameness in the life of the various countries, pointing out distinguishing features which showed the great differences easily apparent to the traveler. "There is no homogeneity in Europe," he declared, "and especially is this true of Spain and Spain has carried these differences into the western world, particularly in regard to the culture of her peoples there, and to architecture."

Mexico, he described as "the land of the half breed," pointing out that in her 16 millions of population, less than 18 per cent were of the Caucasian race. The pride in mixed Spanish and Indian ancestry is so marked, that Mexico has never had a Caucasian president.

In Guatemala is to be found the pure blood Indian race "utterly untouched by European civilization," and living in exactly the conditions that obtained in the days of Columbus.

On the contrary, Panama has the greatest commingling of elements in the world. Cuba, he characterized as "the Paris of America." Political, financial and social differences between the United States and the various countries, were sketched in light of differences he explained that none of the Latin Americans objected to the Monroe doctrine on principle, but to its unilateral character, that is, it was made, interpreted and maintained by the United States alone.

Before concluding his comprehensive talk, Colonel Tupper showed a series of colored slides which gave glimpses of the rare beauty of the countries south of our borders, of the varied architecture, of native Indian life, and conditions that varied from the most modern to the strangely primitive.

Bridge Dinner Honors House-guests From New York

Santa Anans who have enjoyed knowing Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Harris of Batavia, New York, during their winter here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Perkins, 2418 French street, were given the opportunity to strengthen the bonds of friendship last night when Mr. and Mrs. Perkins complimented their house guests at a formal dinner and bridge party in Santa Ana Country club.

Mr. and Mrs. Perkins have become a recognized part of the winter social life in Santa Ana, coming each autumn to spend several months in the home place on French street. This year they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harris who will remain until the late spring when the four will return east together.

For last night's function, Mrs. Perkins selected a dominant arrangement of old rose and yellow, with which the delicate green foliage and soft orchid tones harmonized beautifully. The table where guests sought places for the dinner, was a charming study in these colors, in which great clusters of ranunculus blossoms, slim dinner tapers, fluted baskets with their sweetmeats and place cards all blended.

For the after-dinner diversion of bridge, tables were grouped around the wide fireplace, where the cheerful blaze heightened the friendliness of the evening. Mrs. Perkins was assisted by Miss Beas Wood, in collecting score cards and other details of hospitality.

Prizes were wrapped in soft tissues in the chosen color tones, and tied with great bows of wide gauze ribbon until they looked like flower clusters. Mrs. Harry S. Huff of Orange held high score among the women, while Mr. Huff was equally skilled among the men. To them were presented the two head prizes, while Miss Wood and Mr. Duckett were awarded consolation gifts. As an added hospitality, Mr. and Mrs. Perkins presented handsome decks of playing cards to those making high scores at other tables. These included Mrs. H. T. Duckett, Mrs. Clarence Crookshank, J. E. Liebig, Dr. J. E. Paul and George Smith.

HOME HINTS FEATURED IN RADIO TALKS

Floor and wall covering will be discussed tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. on the 30-minute Adult Education department program over radio KREG. This program is directed by Mrs. Golden Weston and will feature Mrs. Hazel Nell Bemis. Mrs. Bemis will give a resume of her last lecture on flower arrangement and continue with a discussion of floor and wall coverings.

Starting Thursday Miss Ruth E. Gordon will deliver a series of lectures on the applications of science in the home. This series will follow a suggestion made at the convention of Adult Education held at Occidental College last Saturday. At that conference it was suggested that the value of radio educational programs lay in the consecutive presentation of subjects.

The first of Miss Gordon's talks will be on heat and heat appliances in which she will explain how to secure the most heat for the least money. Electrical appliances in the home will form the basis for the second lecture and will be an explanation of how to make simple repairs and replace fuses.

The third lecture will take up the problem of securing good lighting for the home. This will be given under the topic "Light and Color." Under the heading "Cleaning and Stain Removal" Mrs. Bemis will devote the fourth talk to a discussion of how to clean and remove stains most effectively.

The fifth lecture will be devoted to preparation of meals. Talking on the topic "Foods and Their Preparation" she will explain the chemistry and preparation of foods. The seventh and last lecture will also deal with foods. The topic for the final lecture will be "Refrigeration and Preservation of Food" and will explain the most effective and harmless methods of preserving food.

NEW TRUCK CARRIES OWN REFRIGERATION

The first appearance on the Pacific coast of the latest method of transportation of ice cream and dairy products was made this week with the arrival in this city of the very newest idea of proper refrigeration in transportation, a specially built five-ton Moreland truck which is self-refrigerating.

This latest innovation in motor truck circles is owned and operated by the Lucerne Cream and Butter company, and is to be used exclusively in serving their products to Safeway, Piggly Wiggly and Mac Marr stores.

Everywhere this new Lucerne truck goes it attracts commanding attention and hundreds of interested spectators daily are inspecting the first self-refrigerating motor truck to be put into use on the Pacific coast.

Equipped by Kelvinator, it automatically operates with power from the transmission while traveling on the highway and from a special electric motor while the engine is not running. This assures a temperature of desired uniformity, a vital factor encountered in maintaining the proper degree of coldness in the handling and preservation of all dairy products.

A temperature of 40 degrees below freezing is assured to all times in the compartments carrying ice cream, while 8 degrees above freezing is maintained in the receptacles for butter, cheese, etc. The walls of the truck are lined throughout with six inches of cork insulation to help maintain temperatures at a desired uniformity.

ECONOMIST GIVES SECOND LECTURE

J. A. Vye, well known economist, will deliver the second of a series of four talks this evening over radio KREG. Their entertainment is presented in the form of colored meeting with a "sermon" that will put wrinkles in the most rigid countenance. This program will be presented every Tuesday and Thursday evening by electrical transcription and is sponsored under the direction of the Continental Broadcasting company.

RANGERS TO CARRY RADIOS

Portable radio broadcasting and receiving sets have just been perfected by an officer of the U. S. Forest Service in Portland, Oregon. A sixty pound set has been perfected that will broadcast the voice for ten miles and send code messages twenty miles through dense timber in mountainous country, and a ten pound set that will send code messages twenty miles. Neither set requires a ground wire, and they are ready for use as soon as the antenna are up. The larger set is designed for Forest Service fire lookouts on high points and the lighter one for fire guards and patrolmen.

WILL ROGERS IN REVIVAL FILM AT WEST COAST

Will Rogers, ambassador of mirth, is seen tonight at the Fox West Coast theater in his "Young As You Feel."

The picture is being brought back here by popular demand, and is being shown in connection with the regular feature, as a revival. The regular picture is "A Dangerous Affair," with Jack Holt and Ralph Graves.

Rogers' film, which showed at the Fox Broadway theater several months ago is the story of an old fogey, whose 1890 ideas stick to him as close as flypaper until he meets Fifi Dorsay. Then his ideas change so fast that members of his family believe he has suddenly gone crazy.

There are two sons, whose modern ways not only shock their father, but who are deeply embarrassed because of the old fashioned ideas of their parent. These boys are embarrassed to the other extreme after Rogers changes his way.

The picture is a laugh from the start. Rogers steps in and saves more than one dangerous situation for the youths and at the same time takes Miss Dorsay out of a situation in which she finds herself by trailing around with him. "A Dangerous Affair," playing here for the last time tonight, is a mystery-comedy, in which Graves plays the part of a newspaper reporter and Holt, a detective lieutenant. Jewels are stolen and the reporter is accused of the crime.

"HONEYMOON LANE" END SHOWING TODAY

A generous portion of the world's available screenland charm has been affixed to the latest effort of Eddie Dowling, brilliant young man who wrote, directed and acted in "Honeymoon Lane" on the stage in New York and other cities and who now appears in the same opus on the talking screen at Walker's State theater.

"Honeymoon Lane" has been altered slightly as to time, place, action and personnel. But it is essentially the same charming story as that of the original—with an abundance of exhilarating comedy thrown in for good measure. Dowling is seen as the employee in a luxurious summer resort gambling hall operated by Noah Beery, June Collyer, Noah's niece, is in love with Eddie, and Beery tries to upset the romance by accusing Eddie of crookedness in his duties.

AN "OLD BUCK" PILOT
PHILADELPHIA — Marvin H. Scarborough may be an "old buck," but he isn't too old to show some of the "young fellows" how to fly an airplane. Scarborough, 60, has just passed tests for a private pilot's license. He is believed to be one of the oldest pilots in the country. He has his own plane for pleasure flying.

HERE TONIGHT

Will Rogers and Fifi Dorsay have the leading parts in "Young As You Feel," which will be shown at the Fox West Coast theater tonight as a revival picture. The regular feature is "A Dangerous Affair," with Jack Holt and Ralph Graves.

DIETRICH FILM WELL ATTENDED AT BROADWAY

Marlene Dietrich, the "good-bad" woman of "Morocco" and "Dishonored," plays the same type role in her new picture, "The Shanghai Express," which is now showing at the Fox Broadway theater.

Doing a tremendous business here, the picture opened on Sunday to play four days. It is doubtful that it will be held over that date.

"The Shanghai Express" has many things in its favor. Its photography is particularly good. The plot is a little slow, but at the same time the kind of a plot the public is used to seeing in a Dietrich film and one that is at least unusual.

It is the story of what transpires aboard a train which passes through rebel territory on its way to Shanghai. On board the train we find Marlene Dietrich, a woman with a past; Clive Brook, her former lover and a British officer; Eugene Pallette, an American gambler who will bet on anything; Anna May Wong, a Chinese girl with rather shady character; Warner Oland, chief of the revolutionary forces; Lawrence Grant, a missionary, and Louise Hale, a fussy old woman.

At midnight the train is captured by rebels and Brook is taken captive to be held as hostage. It is here the plot unfolds, that Dietrich tells of her love for the man she has not seen for five years and offers to sacrifice herself that he may live.

"Shanghai Express" is good entertainment and Dietrich shows why she is one of the leading actresses of the screen although she has never made but three pictures.

"LAW AND ORDER" OPENS TOMORROW

"Law and Order," a story of the West that was, and starring Walter Huston, Harry Carey and Ralph Ince, comes to the Fox West Coast theater tomorrow.

The picture, now playing in Los Angeles, has received the most favorable of press reports as to plot and acting. Huston plays the role of the sheriff, Ince the outlaw. It is the first picture Carey has made since "Trader Horn." The scene is laid in Tombstone, Ariz. in the old days when the six-shooter ruled.

THE PLAYGROUND DUCHY OF LUXEMBURG
A romantic country and one of the most picturesque in the world, and no more people living in it than you would find in Atlanta, or Syracuse, or St. Paul. It has been an international playground for the Belgians, the Dutch, the French, the Germans for a long time, for it lies near their frontiers. Woods and meadows lie softly upon it as also the most rugged masses of that part of Europe. It is only thirteen and a half hours from London and less than six hours from Brussels, French, German, Belgian and even English coinage is currency. The city of Luxembourg is perched on a huge rock like a city built and has been called the Gibraltar of the North, and whether you buy gloves or roses, the two great exports of the Duchy, you can never forget your trip.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

As Scouty galloped along he shouted, "Oce, I must be strong. Just think! I'm pulling three of you, besides our little cart. And yet I'm breathing very slow as on and on and on I go. If I were weak I'm sure that I'd have thumping of the heart."

Well, Duncy shouted, "Well, that's great! Now just keep up your easy gait. We don't know where we're going, but, at least, we're on our way. It's certain that no time we'll lose, if we don't stop to take a snooze. It still is only noontime. We should get some place today."

Then all was quiet for a while, till Scouty showed up, with a smile. Said he, "I guess I bragged too soon. I'm getting weary now. Let's sit and gaze up toward the sky and watch the pretty birds sail by. When I have rested for a while, I'll pull again, somehow."

They found a very cozy spot. 'Twas not too chilly nor too hot and shortly every Tinymite was snoring right out loud. A great big bird swooped down and then the Tinies woke right up again. The bird had made a funny noise and scared the Tiny crowd.

"Well, I have slept a half an hour," said Scouty, "and I've built up power. Hop right into the chariot and we'll travel right along. You lads are lucky as can be. You should be entertaining me." "All right, we will," said Windy. "We will sing a little song."

But ere their voices filled the air there came a very sudden score. A wheel upon the chariot began to wobble round. The next thing that the Tinies knew, right out into the air it flew. Of course the cart tipped over and the bunch flopped on the ground.

(The Tinies meet a funny old man in the next story.)

When UNHAPPY WOMEN Write About Themselves

Mrs. Penrose Lyly's
New Page For Women

THE other woman in the case is always wicked and husbands are always won back to their wives by little children!

Such, at any rate, seems to be the underlying theme of all short stories written by unhappy women, according to youthful and brilliant Margaret Foley, short story editor for one of the big literary agencies in New York. Miss Foley reads at least 200 unsolicited manuscripts a month.

"It's just like listening to that many heart throbs," she says, "because, in most cases, women write just to get someone to hear about their miseries."

"Of course, they don't really write about themselves. They write about the beautiful, fascinating, man-worshipped creatures they wish they were. As a rule, their husbands or lovers are led astray by designing females who are determined to break up their lives. But in the end, the man always recognizes the sterling worth and suddenly revealed beauty of the right woman."

Young Miss Foley's editorial desk is stacked high with manuscripts.

"Funny, but true, that very few of them come from New England," she says. "Most of the unhappy women seem to live in the south, west or California."

"But I guess that's because the ideal of reticence and silence about matters of the heart is not so popular in the west as it is around Plymouth Rock."

"SEX doesn't color many of the stories. Women seem to pattern their amateurish efforts on the stories in the popular women's magazines. Those magazines are very careful to keep out all sexy material."

"Another funny thing is the way these women treat children. Never as children, but always as baits to win back straying men, or else as objects with which to win pity and commiseration for themselves."

Nothing seems to discourage the amateur writing woman, according to this critic who has handled the stories of such famous authors as Michael Arlen, H. G. Wells, Warwick Deeping and A. A. Milne, creator of Winnie The Pooh.

"Think of the physical labor in preparing a manuscript," she observes.

"Think of the constant stream of rejection slips these women must receive. Yet nothing ever seems to make them stop and realize that writing is a profession and calls for training, a critical outlook and a knowledge of markets."

"My advice to women who just must write it down on paper? Why, tell them, 'Go on and write about yourselves if it eases up the disappointments and loneliness of your lives. Write all day and all night, if you must. If you can play the piano, you probably play for your own pleasure. You don't expect to give public concerts. Write with the same viewpoint. Write for your own spiritual release, and don't expect the reading public to pay hard-earned money for your exercises in self-pity.'"

Miss Foley believes that less than one out of a hundred stories received is worth re-reading and that less than one out of two hundred is ever sent to a magazine for consideration.

"But we are always hoping to discover some new genius hidden in our morning stack of unsolicited stories," she says. "That's why this business is so thrilling. We can never tell when a brand-new writer will come to light."

Margaret Foley reads between the lines to find the tragedies of modern married life

Margaret Foley . . . "women write just to get someone to hear about their miseries."

LENT Is Here

ASH WEDNESDAY, the first day of Lent, comes February 10. The advent of Lent means more frequent servings of eggs and fish, and little earthenware baking dishes, with practical handles, that hold just enough for individual servings, are ideal for egg and fish dishes. The French call them cocottes, and use them constantly in the kitchen during Lent.

Grease the inside, then pile in cooked, chopped spinach. Season with salt and pepper. Break a raw egg over the spinach.

Dust the egg with salt and pepper and grated cheese. Dot with butter. Then place the cocottes in a hot oven and keep there until the egg is set.

Boiled rice, well buttered, and mixed up with parboiled and chopped green peppers, and covered with a raw egg, then sprinkled with cheese and baked as above, is another recipe to pin up for the 40 days between now and Easter Sunday.

The COWBOY Comes Indoors

SLENDER horsemen who dash over the plains, clumsy cattle that will soon be sirloin steaks, and squat little cowhands with terrifically large hats have suddenly invaded the living room in the form of firescreens and doorstops, and have given America a charming new fad.

This craze was started by Thomas Mackinly Wood, a Wyoming cowboy artist with a knack for cutting silhouettes in iron of his beloved western scenes.

Placed before a blazing fire, these iron pictures of active American life put new interest in the living room and make the fire, itself, seem like a blood red sunset behind the distant hills.

Thomas Wood has made several screens on which he has cut portraits of entire families, usually mounted on their favorite horses. The amusing doorstop or footscraper, shown at the left, is a comical picture of himself, dressed in chaps and stetson.

Make Your Own PURSE

ANYONE who steals your purse certainly won't be stealing trash—even if you did make the bag yourself—if you follow the patterns that are shown in the illustration here.

In general, you will need a layer of material, lining, and crinoline cut into the shape of the diagram. The crinoline should be cut a fourth inch smaller to allow for seaming.

Stitch the outer material and lining together, right sides facing, leaving the bottom open. Turn the bag right side out, insert the crinoline, and whip the open edge together. The purse gets its individual distinction by the way that you turn up the lower edge.

A white velvet evening purse with a white bracelet and triangular design of gold beads appears at the left top. A black and silver brocade bag swings from a black bracelet at the right top.

The third purse, which goes with a street costume, is of a spongy black woolen material and has a monogram pin of black and silver.

The brown and Algerian red wool bag, used with a lining of brown flannel, shown in the bottom sketch, adds a colorful sporty note.

pencil box comes well within his mental grasp.

Mrs. Sidonie M. Gruenberg, director of The Child Study Association of America, recently advocated teaching youngsters to borrow wisely. She claims that "it is wise sometimes even to go in debt," especially when a child sees an opportunity to purchase a very necessary and reasonable object on money loaned against his future allowance.

"Under modern conditions, children would seem to need a chance to experience borrowing and lending, as well as earning and spending," she explains.

Teach Children To SPEND

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN taught that "a penny saved is a penny earned," but modern child educators think penny saving in toy banks teaches children bad habits.

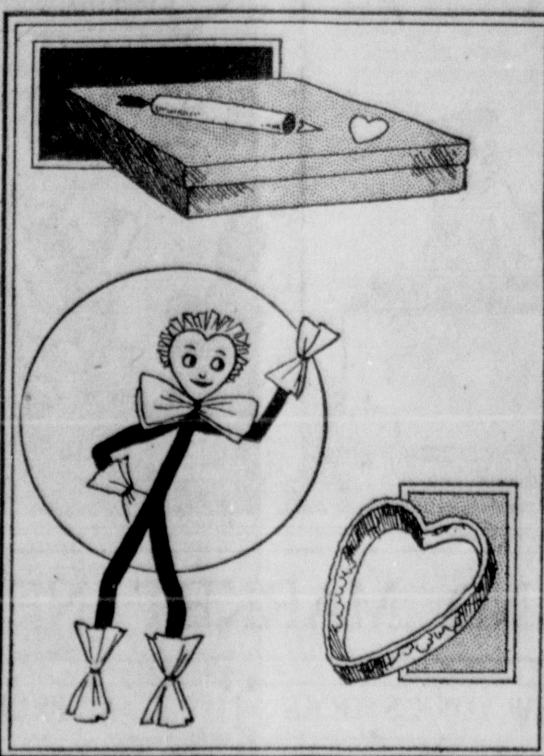

Youngsters under 12 should be taught to spend money wisely, rather than to save it, because they must first learn a few simple facts about the purchasing value of coins.

A penny will buy one little pencil or colored crayon, five pennies will buy a lot more. That 15-cent pad of paper is certainly alluring to young Martin, but as he has at hand only four pennies, he must decide to refrain from spending until he has accumulated the necessary 15.

Had he been forced to put every penny of his tiny weekly allowance in the bank, his education in buying would have slumped.

Small children should be given definite allowances of from five to 10 cents a week. Then they will have to learn management of money in order to purchase what they want.

The idea of dropping pennies in a bank in order to build up a sum for college is far beyond a youngster's understanding. But the idea of saving up for a woolly cat or a red and green

FEBRUARY---The Month of Parties

FEBRUARY is the month for parties. Montreal has its winter carnival, New Orleans has its Mardi Gras—and Washington's Birthday, Valentine's Day and Lincoln's Birthday deserve celebration in every hospitable home.

The cold winds of winter make parties almost necessary and this year, particularly, home parties are in vogue. Whether it's to be a bridge or a dance or a lively evening of games, telephone your friends and then make plans for a party that will make everyone feel a little younger.

Fussy parties are old-fashioned. Crisp, lively, simple evenings are modern. Why not give a Valentine's Party to which all the guests wear bright summer clothes, sweaters, white skirts, flannel trousers or any other form of outdoor clothes? Most people look well in sports clothes and in the middle of winter, this idea will add a note of amusement and gaiety to your party.

For refreshments, select sandwiches, cake, coffee and perhaps a platter of sliced cold meat. Arrange these on a table in the dining room or living room, and let the guests help themselves.

For Valentine's Day, spread a crisp white cloth over the table. Arrange a great white rose, made of crepe paper, in the center, and from it have five or six red toy balloons swinging in the air.

Cut out six red paper hearts and lay them down the center of the table. If you want to spend a few dollars for this party, you can get red glasses and red glass plates for very little money.

ABOUT the living room or on the tables, lay red cardboard boxes filled with cigars. For decoration, place a cigarette on the top of each box, paste a gold paper feather and arrow point to it, as shown in the picture, and nearby paste a gold heart.

Small dolls with bright little faces of red hearts make inexpensive favors. Make the forms out of wire, then simply wrap red crepe paper about them, and at neck, cuffs and ankles, put large white bows tied with red paper. These bright-eyed lassies will add crispness to the evening.

For Washington's Birthday, make a large Uncle Sam's hat out of three pieces of cardboard, paste silver paper over the brim, and red, white and blue paper over the rest of the hat. Set this hat right in the center of the table covered with a white cloth.

From each corner of the table let a red balloon float upward, and in a straight line down the center of the table, lay six little hatchets made of paper.

For souvenirs, use red paper candy baskets with a bunch of red paper cherries tied on the handles, and for cigarettes, paste gold hatchets or bunches of cherries on the red cardboard boxes.

Of course, somewhere in the room, you will hang the stars and stripes.

Lincoln's birthday party follows this scheme closely, substituting little log cabins and a few rails tied together for the hatchets and cherries of Washington's Birthday.

A successful home party must be informal. The moment any of the guests show signs of being hungry, then is the time for refreshments, no matter how early the hour. Hot coffee and delicious sandwiches always seem to make people more friendly.

Here's a simple hot sandwich, in case you want one. Cut white bread thin, remove crusts. Spread with mixture of cream cheese, a little melted butter and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Roll bread and fasten with toothpick.

Bind a lean strip of bacon about the bread roll, brown in hot oven until the bacon is crisp. Serve very hot.

Somehow, people—men especially—much prefer sandwiches that are thick and substantial to any heart-shaped, wafer-thin delicacy that you can offer. Don't think that frosted cakes or fancy puddings are necessary.

Mix Your Own POWDER

POWDER should mellow the color in a woman's face, not disguise it.

Is your general skin tone yellow, pink or white? To decide, look at the tone of your skin in the little hollow in your shoulder.

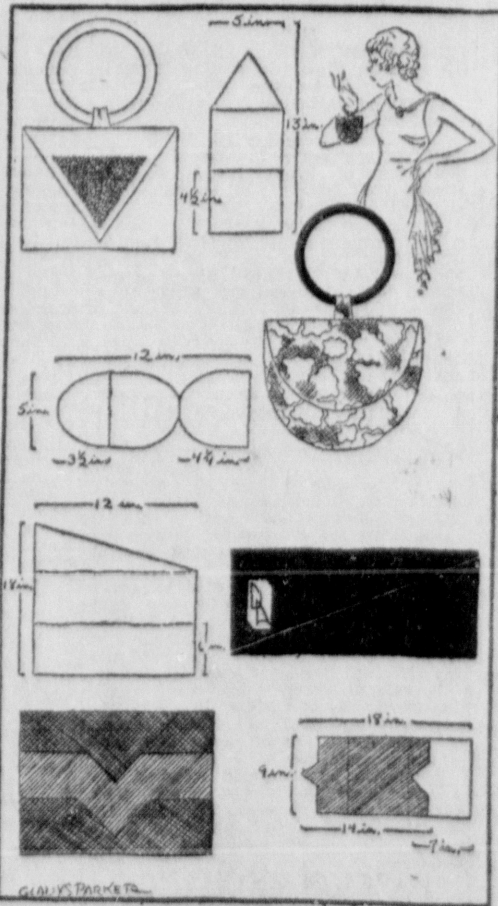

Don't try to decide from your cheeks. Weather and sun affect the cheeks first, but the hollow in the shoulder is protected and gives the only reliable indication of your true skin tone.

Beauty experts advise women to blend their own face powders. Usually, no more than two different tones are needed to give the correctly tinted powder.

Mix the powders thoroughly, then try out on the shoulders. When you think you have matched your skin, powder half your face, leaving neck unpowdered.

Does the color of the powdered face harmonize with the unpowdered neck? If it does, then you have the correct powder. If not, try mixing again until you get the tone that is yours.

With a little experimenting, you will soon be able to mix powders that will definitely bring out your own loveliness far better than prepared powders put up in fancy boxes.

TWO DIFFERENT PLANS

In the disarmament conference there are two plans that have been presented, which are as far apart as the poles of the earth in their conception of what will bring peace in the world.

One of them is by France, whose delegates suggest that peace can be best secured by having a great international army directed by the League of Nations, which will insure that the will of the League be carried out.

The opposite view is held by most of the other delegates and is being presented by the representatives of Great Britain; that the disarmament of the nations themselves is the only method of insuring peace. The one side claims that to carry out France's program would convert the League of Nations into an engine of war rather than of peace.

France claims that it is the only method of insuring peace. France has been urging constantly a program of "security." She has wanted the United States and Great Britain to enter into a treaty with her by which they would come to her aid in case of an aggressive act by any nation, and particularly Germany. This, the two great Anglo-Saxon nations have constantly refused to do, and probably France is taking this method of both emphasizing her plan and maybe achieving it.

In the first place, of course, America is not a part of the League of Nations. This disarmament conference, while in a sense it is the legal child of the League of Nations, has no organic relation or connection with it whatever, further than that it owes its inception to the League compact.

Hence if the disarmament conference should take the form of involving the League of Nations into a program of an international army the United States would have to withdraw at once. We presume that France conceives the United States of America as an illustration of many states uniting under a Federal authority, governed by a legislative body, with a supreme court, and with an army made up of representatives from all the states, to carry into effect, if need be, the determination of the Federal government.

There is all the difference in the world, however, in the character of our Federal government and that either of the League of Nations or of the disarmament conference. One of the primary difficulties is the sources of revenue for its support. Our Federal government has the power of taxation. It can raise its own revenue—it is not dependent upon the respective states for this. It is not dependent upon any particular quota from any state for the composition of its standing army.

There might be a plan of a United States of Europe, but it would have to be a Constitution that would go farther and deeper than that of the League of Nations. If the League of Nations becomes dependent upon force, it would fail of its entire purpose.

Sir John Simon, in criticizing the position of France, brings out most clearly the thought which many have been trying to express, but he has finally uttered it in unmistakable English. He says:

A higher level of armaments is no substitute for security. At best it only creates the illusion of security in one quarter while at the same time aggravating the sense of insecurity in another. The security which we set before us as our ideal is security for all, and security for all fundamentally depends upon armament reduction.

PUTTING GEORGE WASHINGTON OVER

The country, perhaps, has never seen so enterprising and ambitious a plan to put over a project as that of the coming celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. We thought that Washington was about as outstanding a character in American history as he ever could become, but if the celebration is fulfilled according to plans outlined up to date, the country will know George Washington as it never yet has known him.

It was in 1924 that Congress projected the celebration that is to come off this year. Not until a year ago was anything done to get the plans under way. When it fell into the hands of Sol Bloom, Congressman from New York City, child of a poor Polish immigrant, a professional showman of successful experience, things began to hum. For nearly a year the Commission of which he is Chairman, if not the whole thing, has been busy putting Washington over on the country. With a persistence and a resourceful energy, backed by a showman's ingenuity and advertising skill, Sol Bloom has been getting us Washington-conscious. By means of tons of literature, radio speeches, a whole new series of postage stamps, colonial regalia for school children, D. A. R.'s, lodges, civic organizations, and all shades of patriotic societies, and pageants and playlets, Washington is destined to become as familiar to us all as Will Rogers, Amos 'n Andy, the Stebbins Boys, and Little Orphan Annie.

It is to be a real showman's show; but whether it will do credit to the dignity of our most dignified and aristocratic American may well be questioned. Only the other day we were informed by a manufacturer of regalia that he was about to sign a contract for a great mass of colonial costumes, to be used in schools for this celebration, that would net him a handsome profit. Concessions of all kinds have been sold to such enterprising manufacturers and merchants. Badges and balloons, wooden swords and periwigs, knee breeches, and buckle shoes, will all figure in the celebration. This is the time when the New England Brahmin and the First Families of Virginia are left out, and the great patriotic spectacle is left to the direction of a humble immigrant boy who has made a fortune in the show business.

We are not altogether unfavorably disposed toward such a celebration, but it is so different from anything that has been done before, that we cannot quite become accustomed to it. General U. S. Grant, grandson of the former president and general, was on the Commission, but he has stepped into the background to let Sol Bloom run the whole show. With much of the plan we are not aroused to great enthusiasm; but if the addresses over the radio, and the programs to be carried out in the schools, and the sermons to be preached in innumerable pulpits of the land, bring out what was really great in the character of George Washington, it will be of great benefit to the country. There is one thing about it that commends itself, and that is that the celebration will pay its own expenses. It is said that the new series of postage stamps has already netted the Post Office Department a profit of a million and a half dollars. The sale of concessions will add a generous amount. That means much in these days when the Government is running into a big deficit, and there is little public money to spare for pageantry and celebrations.

Washington—Notes from our nation's capital... You mustn't think that the good people of Washington spend all their time worrying about Congress and watching the other wheels of government go around... "Peaches" Browning of New York, advertised as "the most famous woman in the world," appeared at a local burlesque house and you couldn't even get standing room there. She broke the attendance record previously held by a muscle dancer. Several congressmen were introduced to her backstage.

But what really took this town by the ears was the marathon dancing contest, which, on a conservative estimate, caused 15 times as much comment and discussion as the $2,000,000 Emergency Reconstruction Corporation measure. The dance began December 3 and was speeded to a conclusion by one-minute-every-hour rest periods January 28, at which time the winners had danced 1321 consecutive hours. Enormous financial success. Half of Washington attended or became excited about it. The other half discussed it superciliously.

Several interesting things happened:
1. An unemployed colored man went to jail for 15 days because a white woman gave him a dollar to throw a brick through the window and he did.
2. One contesting couple got married during a rest period. Someone says the same couple "gets married" in every such contest elsewhere, but your correspondent only covers the hot news in Washington.

3. A small riot developed as a favorite couple was disqualified when the gent flamed out.
"Mourning Becomes Electra," the six-hour O'Neill play, had a packed house daily while here. So did Mary Wigman, the extraordinary German dancer, but not Martha Graham, the extraordinary but not yet equally ballyhooed American dancer. It's another good year in Washington for the visiting concert orchestras and art exhibits.

We read books here, too... Dutton's sends a free copy of "The Capital City Mystery," by J. H. Wallis, which is about a congressman and his sculptress wife who freeze a senator and another congressman to death for political purposes and encase the corpse in statues which are stood up and unveiled in Statuary Hall... Much good stuff in this book, although sometimes overdone, about Washington's more manifest absurdities, hypocrisies and artificialities. And it will now be more interesting to walk through Statuary Hall on dark late afternoons... Do you ever get into political arguments and find yourself worried? The Woman's National Democratic club publishes a snappy monthly, which says: "If you are 'stumped' by the questions of fellow Democrats or Republicans, send your questions to the editor of the Democratic Bulletin." The editor is Evelyn C. Condon, a nice girl... Jim West's publicity department at the Republican National Committee promises to provide Republican answers to Republicans who need them.

The District of Columbia has become somewhat of a battleground for barbers and their patrons... A bill pending requiring all barber shops here to close on Sunday. Many barbers, it appears from petitions received in Congress, think that's fine. But groups of citizens over the country are protesting the measure as being just another "blue law."

Norman Draper of the Institute of American Meat Packers asks will this writer please say that the widely published story about the Colorado sheep raiser who received 10 cents apiece for "seven fine young lambs"—a yarn first worked here by President John A. Simpson of the National Farmers' Union—is the bunk. Draper submits evidence that the animals were old ewes, some of which were declared unfit for food and the rest of which had hardly any good meat on them... House Minority Leader Henry T. Rainey whispers that the way for farmers to make money is to raise deer. He raises them on his farm in Illinois and gets $75 apiece for them.

CHEER UP

When Ham and Japheth, from the Ark,
Observed the lowering sky
And saw the clouds were dense and dark
As they went rolling by,
And watched the water as it fell
Drop after splashing drop,
They sadly moaned, "This rainy spell
Is never going to stop."
But those pessimists were wrong,
The truth from them was hid,
And after not so very long
It did.

In many ages of the past
Have people been beset
By troubles so profound and vast
That they're remembered yet.
And loudly they have raised their cries
In one lugubrious roar:
"We shall not look on brighter skies
From now till evermore."
But in a very little while
These sour-visaged men
Discovered they had learned to smile
Again.

For history's information page
Records both "highs" and "lows,"
And every slowly circling age
Has had its joys and woes.
And just when nearly every one
United in a whine
The clouds were broken, and the sun
Once more began to shine.
The clouds were broken, and the sun
Once more began to shine.
Whenever people, in despair,
Thought everything gone wrong,
There's been a change before so very Long.

TRADITIONS

I have heard a great many people talk about traditions, especially family traditions, and dwell with considerable pride on the fact, or belief, that their family possessed them.
Actors talk about the traditions of the stage, usually knowing little about them.
Professional men talk of the traditions of their professions.
And all these people are very proud of the traditions they possess, and insist that they are doing their best to follow them in their lives.

Now a tradition is something that has escaped the historian's effort to record a habit or a custom, and has come down from one generation to another.
A dictionary defines it as "the handing down of opinions, doctrines, practices, rites and customs from ancestors to posterity; the transmission of any opinion or practice from forefathers to descendants, or from one generation to another by oral communications without written memorials."

Now there are a great many things to which people cling, for the lack of any outstanding ability or merit in themselves, and one of them is a tradition.

And the fact that a person or a nation has traditions seems to "set up" the persons or the nation far more than other men are "set up" by achievements or their own.

This, it seems to me, more intellectual snobbishness, and quite as foolish and as silly as any other kind of snobbishness.

A great many leaders of thought and of progress in every generation have managed to get along with their own common sense and intelligence as their only guide of conduct.

Abraham Lincoln would have had a hard time tracing family traditions, and it may be that he wouldn't have followed any of them if he had traced them.

I have known a good many people whose ancestors' traditions would not have borne investigation, and yet they themselves were honorable and useful men.

As to the traditions of nations, some of them are not mentioned by the present rulers of the nations, and for good and sufficient reasons.

There are many ways of gaining self-importance and self-esteem, and this worship of tradition is one of the worst of them. You have a right, perhaps, to be proud of a distinguished ancestor or family if you are a credit to it.

If you are assumed of your own career, your shame will not be lightened by the belief, handed down by word of mouth, that away back your fifteenth or sixteenth great-grandfather was a distinguished man among his people, or that your family at one time was smiled on by some man of great distinction.

To quote the old, and a trifle over-sentimental song:
"It isn't what you used to be, it's what you are today."

Life

THE TEACHER AND THE 1932 CAMPAIGN

Keep the schools out of politics!
Keep politics out of the schools!
Here are two favorite slogans of American educators.

If the politics in question is dirty and destructive, these are sound slogans.

If the politics in question is clean and constructive, the soundness of these slogans may rightly be questioned.

If there is any enterprise of a people with which statesmanship may rightly be concerned it is education.

Certainly this is true if we ever hope to expand the conception of statesmanship beyond wire-pulling to the high adventure of intelligent social management.

But all this is beside the point that concerns me today, namely, that whether politics should tamper with the schools, politics will tamper with the schools in the difficult days of imperative retrenchment that lie ahead.

The teacher has, therefore, a peculiar stake in the kind of political leadership the 1932 campaign throws up.

Never has wise leadership been more vitally needed than it will be needed in what I suspect is an inevitable deflation of the American school system, unless there is a relatively prompt upward thrust of the economic curve.

Such retrenchment can be made the beginning of ruin or the beginning of renaissance in American education.

Retrenchment by indiscriminate reduction will spell ruin.

Retrenchment by intelligent reorganization may spell renaissance.

The next president will face an historic chance for creative leadership in what it will be within his power to do, directly or indirectly, to guide this educational retrenchment, if it comes.

I have never been particularly enthusiastic about a Secretary of Education for the Presidential Cabinet. There is enough bureaucracy blighting the schools as it is. There is no need to go looking for it. But it may well be that, in the phase of educational retrenchment we may be facing, a great Secretary of Education could more than justify the office by his leadership in a nationwide shifting of our educational program from its phase of quantitative expansion to a phase of qualitative development.

SAY YES

It is always easier for us to say
"No," when children ask to do things than to say "Yes." It seems safer. "Mother, can I wear my new dress today?" "No. Save it for another time." The words were out of your mouth before you had time to think. The child was disappointed. When you had time to think it over, you knew that it really made no difference whether she wore that dress today or another day. Your impulse of safety made you say "No" first and think afterward.

A good many of our No's are like that. Given time for reflection we would change them to Yes's.
But it is too late. Having said No we are afraid to say Yes because the children might learn that our No meant Yes and that would never do.

Experience has made us wary of saying Yes to the children. They spring something upon us and if we are surprised into saying Yes to what we should have negatively firmly, we are in a bad place. Caution has taught us to be wary. Often we are impulsively negative when we would be reasonably affirmative.

The best way is to take time before answering either way. Listen to the request with an open mind.
Hear the child through. Don't stop him in the middle of a sentence with, "No. Don't bother me with such nonsense. I've no time for it. You know I don't want you out after night. I've told you that over and over again."

All the time you are trying to choke off the child he is striving to get in his word, to explain that this time is different. Maybe it is.
Maybe it is the one time that you can see a good reason for his breaking precedent. Hear him out.

Count ten, twenty, fifty, a hundred if you need to, before you answer and then say Yes if you can.

Childhood and youth are the times when Yes means so much to the pleading children. They can dance and sing and play now. By and by, when they have sense, what we call sense in our grownup moments—they will not want to play, will not be able to play. The day will come when the girl will not care what dress she wears and the boy won't mind whether he gets a polo coat or not. If you save up all the joy until the children can safely be trusted with it because of their years and experience, they won't want it for the savor will have left it long ago.
The flavor of life lies in a healthy childhood richly enjoyed.

I am not asking for indulgence.
Over-petting, spoiling and all that make for selfishness. What is needed is an inclination to allow children all the fun, all the joy, all the privileges that it is healthy to let them have. We don't want to say No unless we cannot help it.

If we make a habit of trying to say Yes, of trying to get the child's point of view, our No, when we have to say it, comes with a better grace, and sits with a better grace. Experience has taught the child that the No is for their protection and happiness and acts as well as a Yes in the long run.
That is, if you say Yes as often as you can.

tention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

SIGN UKRAINIAN PEACE

On Feb. 9, 1918, a treaty of peace was signed between the Ukrainian Republic and the Central Powers.

Germany, Austria-Hungary,
Bulgaria and Turkey were signatories of the Central Powers.

In the preamble of the treaty
the Ukrainian Republic declared its desire to "take the first step toward a lasting world's peace, honorable to all parties, which shall not only put an end to the horrors of war, but also lead to the restoration of friendly relations of the people in political, legal, economic and intellectual realms."

American prisoners were captured at Livy on the western front, and the French repulsed
German raids in the region of Nieuport and Julincourt and Mo-ronvilliers.

After a young lawyer had talked nearly five hours to a jury who felt like lynching him, his opponent in the case, a grizzled old veteran of the legal cockpit, rose, smiled sweetly at the judge and juryman, and said:

"Your Honor, I will follow the example of my young friend who has just concluded, and will submit the case without argument."
